2 BOSTON "CLUBMEN" ARRESTED

CHARGE IS MADE BY NAVAL MEN

Prisoners at Portsmouth, N. H., Gave Names as Francis Endicott and Robert M. Winthrop

Two Boston "clubmen," who gave their names and who cashed checks valued at $600 as Robert M. Winthrop and Francis Endicott of this city, have been arrested in Portsmouth, N. H., on complaints brought by officers of the U. S. S. Washington, based on charges made by two sailors on that ship.

News of the arrests came to light today when the two men failed to put in an appearance in the Portsmouth court to answer to the charges lodged against them. Both defaulted and forfeited bail of $200 each after spending one night in a cell in the Portsmouth police station.

CALLED BOSTON BANKS.

The arrests took place Thursday. Friday in court the men were unable to furnish, in cash, the $600 bail requested of them. They offered two checks for $300 each to Stanton M. Freeman, clerk of court. The checks were drawn on the Old Colony Trust Company in Boston and made out to the Merchants & Traders Bank in Portsmouth.

In the presence of others the men called the Old Clonoy Trust Company and Kidder, Peabody & Co. on the telephone and asked each of those banking concerns to honor the checks. They then sat down and made out the checks. The checks were cashed by the Portsmouth bank and the money was turned over to Clerk Trumbull. The checks were signed "Robert M. Winthrop" and "Francis Endicott." The checks went through and are said to have been honored by the banks.

CAME IN AUTOMOBILE.

According to the police, the men who gave their names as Endicott and Winthrop arrived in Portsmouth in an automobile on Monday, October 9. The car was driven by a private chauffeur. They visited the Portsmouth Navy Yard and were shown about the battleship Washington by two of the sailors. After they had seen all there was to see on the ship, the men left. Previous to their departure they thanked the young sailors who had conducted them about the vessel and asked them to be their guests that evening. The sailors consented.

Later, the police say, the sailors met the visitors at the National Hotel. One of them was registered at the hotel as "R. Winthrop," and the other as "R. W. Edwards." The police claim "Winthrop" and "Edwards" got the two sailors intoxicated.

On the following Wednesday one of the two young sailors received a telegram which was sent to the battleship from Lakeport, N. H. The telegram read:

My friend and I return to Ports.

PERIL FOR BRITAIN IN CENSORSHIP

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 16.—"Sees Peril for England in Present Censorship." Under the foregoing heading the New York Evening Mail, which is served by the Associated Press, today carries the following article:

"A well-known Englishman, who arrived here today on a government mission, said that while the position of the allies in the neutral mail controversy is unassailable in many respects, censorship in England is becoming a national joke, and may soon become a national peril.

"He spoke of mail and press censorship as 'crass folly' and 'rampant idiocy.'

"'England's demand for men is so great,' he said, 'that the work of censoring the mail has been left for the most part in the hands of women and young girls, many of whom entered the work with no more aptitude for it than what they may have gained as typists or from the ribbon counter. Few of them, so far as I could learn, even had the advantage of having previously done secretarial work of some sort.

"'I visited one office in London, where practically the entire staff is made up of young girls. They were of the type known as "chickens" in New York. They seem to be having the time of their lives, opening and reading other people's letters. I noticed that the ones that most interested them were those which contained sentimental passages or scandal of some sort.

"'That these youngsters could have recognized anything of national value even if it has been set forth in the simplest terms seemed quite incongruous to me.

"'I believe that 90 per cent. of the letters read by these censors might be passed on to their destinations unopened for all the good the reading of them does the government. It is a fact that the ones which raised the most discussion and are passed on to be read by officials higher up are communications which have to do with romantic love affairs and divorce cases.'"

DENY DEAL IS ON TO BUY RED SOX

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

The report that the Red Sox would be sold to a syndicate of Boston business men headed by J. J. McCarthy, proprietor of the Shawmut House, was today denied by all parties concerned.

Joseph Kennedy, the youthful president of the Columbia Trust Company, East Boston, was named as one of the prospective purchasers. He asserted that he did not know anything about the proposed deal.

J. J. McCarthy was reported as being the head of the syndicate which planned to take over the World's Champions. He declared that he did not know anything about a deal for the purchase of the Red Sox. He added that he required all of his time to conduct his hotel business.

President Lannin declared that neither he nor Col. Jacob Ruppert, nor Mr. Kennedy had discussed the matter of a sale of the Red Sox. He announced that he would sell any of his business interests if the proper amount of money were offered. That would be taken to indicate a sale of the Red Sox sooner or later if the right parties came along with sufficient inducement.

"The matter is entirely new to me," said Mr. Kennedy today. "That is in so far as this year is concerned. From time to time certain individuals have credited me with being in the market for a ball club, and always for the Red Sox. I am not and have not been in the market for the club. Of course I'd buy anything if the price were right, but just now you can say for me that I am not in the market for the Red Sox."

BOY SAVES CARRIER PIGEON FROM CAT

A carrier pigeon dropped in an Allston yard today; a cat caught it; and Paul McFee, nine years old, of No. 4 Athol street, Allston, rescued it from the cat. On its leg in an aluminum tube was a message in code from a New York concern to a South street leather firm.

'PITIFUL END OF RUMANIAN DRIVE'

By International News Service.

Berlin, via Sayville, Oct. 16.—Describing the Rumanian invasion of Transylvania as having ended "in the most pitiful fashion," the military critic of the Overseas News agency in a review today gives details of the disastrous retreat of King Ferdinand's forces before General von Falkenhayn's army. He asserts the first Rumanian army was practically annihilated and that the smaller part of the second army escaped the same fate only by the timely arrival of reinforcements.

"The Rumanian leaders," says the writer, "lost their firmness and surety of decision. Brigades and regiments were hastily and desperately moved forward and back again on railroads and even on carts. Only pitiful fragments of the Rumanian army could be rescued from the Transylvanian territory and taken to hiding places in the frontier mountains.

"The Transylvanian population and the better Rumanian elements feel delivered from a nightmare.

"Before Kronstadt the retreat of the second army became a panicky flight. The pursuers gained rich booty near and in Kronstadt, since the Rumanians were forced to abandon everything.

"Rumanian officers also left behind private property, which they had taken. Some abandoned furniture stolen from houses. At the same time the fleeing army took senseless revenge against the inhabitants of Kronstadt, German and Hungarian soldiers were welcomed as real liberators."

FIGHT TO REDUCE BIG SERIES PRICES

St. Louis, Oct. 16.—President Schuyler Britton of the Cardinals agrees with Ban Johnson's suggestion to adopt popular prices for World's Series games. In a statement today Britton said:

"I believe the highest cut should be but a double increase for the season's prices. I am going to make this suggestion at our meeting this Winter. If I ever win a pennant, I will only double the bleacher prices." The Cardinals' park has the largest bleachers seating capacity in the major circuit with 10,000 quarter seats.

PLAGUE GERM FOUND

MYSTERY IN MAINE EXPLOSION

INQUIRY ON BLOW UP BY NAVY

U. S. Officials Suspect Breach of Neutrality in Strange Explosion at East Machias, Me.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Acting Secretary of the Navy Admiral Benson today announced that the department had ordered a complete investigation of the mysterious explosion at East Machias, Me., on the theory that "some violation of American neutrality might be involved." He stated it was "quite likely" that Admiral Mayo, commander of the Atlantic fleet, had ordered the destroyer McDougall, which put out suddenly from Bar Harbor, Me., without announcing her destination, to East Machias to begin the investigation.

East Machias, Me., Oct. 16.—Spurred by the fact that the United States navy officials have ordered a complete investigation of the mysterious explosion here which destroyed one building and was heard for many miles, the local authorities are running down clews with a view of ascertaining the person responsible.

No arrests have been made, and apparently whoever was responsible has made a clean getaway. The explosion occurred in the early morning long before anyone in town was stirring. By the time the crowd had gathered a fast powerboat could have slipped down the river and out to sea.

Since the explosion many persons who maintain there is something more behind it than appeared at first, recall the fact that August 7 the lookout at Cross Island coastguard station, but a short distance from here, reported sighting two submarines about five miles off shore.

At that time the Bremen, the German merchant underwater craft, was expected daily. It was at first believed that it was the Bremen and a consort that were sighted.

The Bremen, however, failed to appear. Since the explosion, and the belief that is entertained by many persons there that a base for supplies for German undersea boats is located somewhere nearby, the appearance of the mysterious submarine is recalled as being of significant import.

The demolished building was owned

RIOT BREAKS UP BAYONNE MEETING

Bayonne, N. J., Oct. 16.—A meeting of strikers broke up in a riot today. M. F. Trakimas, chairman of the strike committee, was arrested while he was making an inflammatory speech announcing he would prosecute the strike "with every inch of his blood and every ounce of his flesh." As the police seized him pandemonium reigned. Prospects for a settlement seemed remote this afternoon. An attempt to kill Police Inspector Cady early today was the only shooting reported.

Britain, Not U. S., Will Rule in Finance if Allies Win War

By International News Service.

Paris, Oct. 16.—The financial superiority of the United States in war-stricken Europe will continue for some time after the establishment of peace, owing to the great demand for American products to restore the ruins, says the Paris Temps.

New York will be the financial and commercial centre of the world until England has paid her American debts, but a complete victory by the allies, adds the Temps, will enable England quickly to regain her dominating financial position.

At the beginning of the war the United States owed Europe five billion dollars, but Europe is now the debtor.

The influx of gold into the United States from Europe earlier in the war caused an immediate rise in the cost of living in America, says the Temps.

JAIL AMERICAN FOR WEARING UNIFORM

London, Oct. 16.—A young man about twenty-one years of age who gave his name as Arthur Alfred Wood of Norfolk, Va., has been sentenced to three months hard labor for illegally wearing the uniform of His Majesty's forces with intent to deceive. Wood was arrested several weeks ago in Ilkski in company with two other men similarly clad. All said they were absent from their regiments without leave and all were charged with being absentees. The sentences of two of the men eventually were quashed, but Wood's statements contradicted and he was admitted to be an American and had never been in the army.

KILL BANDIT WHO ROBBED TAYLORS

By EDMOND RICHE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

M., Oct. 16.—Followers of General Gutierrez have captured and slain four of the bandits who robbed Taylor Brothers' store in Colonia Juarez, recovering practically all of the loot, that the brigands had carried off. The stolen property was returned to its owners.

Reports that a regiment of American cavalry had occupied Namiquipa were denied at headquarters today.

RAW FOOD CARRIES PLAGUE

Johns Hopkins Expert Says the Disease Is Present in Milk and Water; Boiling Is Urged.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 16.—The mystery surrounding the cause of the spread of infantile paralysis has been solved, according to an official communication made at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Extensive research resulted in Dr. Horace T. Burrows, pathologist of the hospital, has resulted in the discovery of the infantile paralysis germ, the existence of which was established nine years ago by Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute.

According to Dr. Burrows the disease is not spread by contagion, but the germ is introduced into the human system through the mouth in milk and water.

IN MILK OR WATER.

Present always in every case of the disease a germ has been found in the intestine showing that the disease is spread by some raw food. That that food is milk or water is established by the fact that babies whose only diet has been milk or water, died of the disease.

Dr. Burrows and his associates under the direction of Professor Flexner, have been making an investigation of topsies upon every victim of the disease since July. They have conducted a careful microscopic search.

WILLCOX RAPS FOE'S 'RUFFIANISM'

New York, Oct. 16.—William R. Willcox, national Republican chairman, declared today that the Democrats are guilty of "organized ruffianism." Mr. Willcox mentioned no names, but declared that it was evident from the interruptions and disturbances at big Republican rallies all over the country that a systematic attempt is being made to disorganize the Republican leaders.

"It is the last resort of a desperate cause," said the Republican.

SENTENCE LYNN GIRLS AS FORGERS

Annie Weiner and Annette Barss, two Lynn girls of seventeen and eighteen, were given suspended sentences in the Lynn Court today on charges of forging and uttering checks purporting to be signed by George Freedman of No. 105 Ohio street, Lynn, for whom Miss Barss formerly worked. The girls left home a week ago and were arrested Saturday in Bridgeport, Ct. Miss Weiner must make restitution of $25 and Miss Barss of $113.

Billy Sunday to Make War on Wealthy Sinners

The Unitarians can never make it plain to me through their teaching of evolution that I came from an ourang-outang. Though I've seen them in the African jungle. The foregoing statements was made by the Rev. G. R. McQuilkin, P. H. G. H., pastor of the Hoosier Street Church, in his address today before the Billy Sunday meeting of Baptist ministers in Chipman Hall. He said that Sunday would assail the class which thinks it can get because it has money.

"Billy Sunday will come to Boston and preach to us the truths of the Bible," said Mr. McQuilkin.

"Billy Sunday is coming to this city to preach to rich men. He's not coming here to lambast anything but sin. If Unitarians and Universalists are preachers and teachers of sin, as I've come to believe from what is revealed in the Bible, they must expect to hear from Billy Sunday, and they have a right to hear from him.

"There are too many people in the churches of Boston who think they can commit sin because they have money. They will find out differently from Billy Sunday."

J. HAZEN HYDE URGES PAN-ATLANTIC PACT

Paris (oct. 16.—A Pan-Atlantic alliance between the United States and the entente powers is urged by James Hazen Hyde, an American, who has been living in Paris for a number of years. Mr. Hyde in a statement published today says:

"The formation of an agreement for both political and commercial relations at the close of the war between the United States that she would suffer economic extinction after the war if Germany is favored in any way."

CARUSO PROUD OF NEW MUSTACHE

New York, Oct. 16.—Reported because he had beaten the Kaiser at his own game—no, not the war, but to raising a mustache—Enrico Caruso came to these shores today on the liner Lafayette. The tenor's new adornment on the upper lip was none of the short, stubby growth affected by the Hohenzollern youngster. It was the real thing. He told reporters that his mustache could be trimmed in time for becoming "it was decided against."

HELLIG OLAV SAW NO SUBMARINE

New York, Oct. 16.—Contrary to the report brought here by the British steamship Hellig Olav, the Scandinavian-American liner Hellig Olav reported by wireless today that the Sea had sighted any German submarine on the high seas. The Hellig Olav had been reported sunk. Miss Ward was a stowaway on the Hellig Olav, a report denied by Miss Ward herself at Halifax.

Duffy found that Miss Ward was not so accessible to those of his friends who wished to see her, so he left the ship with the body of the girl were six men.

Seven men are alleged to have been Attorney O'Connell, James O'Connell, Edward Sullivan, Daniel J. Dineen of No. 187 Bostad street, Salem, and William Conlin of No. 4 Baxter street, Boston. Four of the men were arrested, but Dineen and Conlin were later released. The other four men were held. The arrest of Dr. Scanlan, the Pittsfield woman and Margaret Howard followed; and the eight were indicted by the Grand Jury.

MORE HOGS, FEWER CATTLE IN GERMANY

By International News Service.

ARGUE ON TRAGEDY CHARGE

Begin Trial of 5 Men and 3 Women Accused as Accessories in the Death of Peabody Girl

Arguments on motions to quash the indictments against five men and three women in connection with the death on July 5 of Margaret Ward of Peabody, and on motions for the filing of a bill of specifications occupied the entire afternoon when the trial of the eight persons opened before Judge White in the Suffolk Superior Court today.

The jury was excused till tomorrow, when the taking of testimony was expected to begin.

The defendants are: Dr. John J. Shanahan of Peabody, Thomas J. Sexton of Peabody, Charles H. O'Connell of Peabody, an attorney and former member of the Legislature, James O'Connell of Lynn, a brother of the Peabody attorney, George A. Bardwell of the Hotel Agassiz, Gertrude Pitfield, Emma Pitfield and Margaret Howard of Boston.

The defendants were represented by Attorney Daniel H. Coughlin and one of the chief arguments reported today was whether the defendants would be tried separately or collectively.

Attorney M. J. Sullivan is counsel for Dr. Shanahan and Attorney Charles O'Connell and his brother are represented by Attorney E. J. Harney and Attorney Bardwell of the Hotel Agassiz. The two are separate for Bardwell. Attorney Coughlin represents Gertrude Pitfield, Emma Pitfield and Margaret Howard.

Margaret Ward, the victim in the case, was found dead after an automobile ride with a party of friends in Salem from a house in Roxbury. The police and medical examiner say an operation performed on the girl caused her death. Miss Ward was a stenographer employed by Eugene Hartley at Salem.

Duffy found that Miss Ward was not so accessible to those of his friends who wished to see her, so he left the ship with the body of the girl were six men.

NEGROES LYNCHED AND BURNED.
Report of Mob Which Burned 500 Negroes Is Denied.
Reports that a mob of 500 persons stormed the jail at Memphis, Tenn., and dragged out negroes who were charged with murder, and burned them, were denied by officials there today. They were charged with the murder of a white man. One of the negroes was accused of killing Mrs. Ella Rose Friday night, and committing an assault upon her. The other negro was charged with murdering a white man. Both negroes confessed to the crimes, officials declare, and it is believed that a mob, which threatened to storm the jail, would be unable to secure the negroes. They were taken from Memphis to Nashville within two hours after the crimes were committed. REPORT U. S. WARSHIP NEAR RAMMING U-53

by Carroll Dennison, and was used as a fishstand for a short time each year.

Many theories are held in explanation of the explosion. Some insist that the building was used as a storehouse for large quantities of high explosives. Others believe that it was due only to a grievance existing between two fishermen.

BUILDING UNOCCUPIED.

The building had not been occupied since last June. It is one of many shanties on the river that are used for only a short time during the fishing season.

The river is shallow at this point, and only at high water could a vessel of any size reach the shanty. At that time there is from ten to fifteen feet of water, enough to admit the passage of a vessel of considerable size.

The local authorities are inclined to scoff at the theory that the Germans have used the building as a base of supplies.

U. S. Destroyers Still Hunt U-Boat Base

By International News Service.

Newport, Oct. 16.—Search for a hidden submarine base and secret wireless station, the existence of which was reported as a result of the recent spectacular visit of the German submarine U-53 is being continued by the American destroyer patrol. Destroyers continued to depart and arrive from various sections of the New England coast all day long but nothing to confirm the existence of either of these unneutral establishments was discovered.

Hunt Submarine Cache on Maine Coast

Bar Harbor, Me., Oct. 16.—Following a dash to sea at full speed, the United States destroyer McDougal is today making a thorough search along the Maine coast in connection with reports of the existence of a belligerent submarine base in this section.

The warship's departure from this place came after hurried orders had been received to clear to sea at once. It is announced.

The departure gave rise to a report of important developments somewhere along the coast.

The McDougal had left Eastport and with other ships of the destroyer flotilla, watched the Maine coast for some sign of a foreign submarine base.

Later she put in here and gave shore leave to a party of her officers.

The men had not been ashore long when four blasts of the ship's whistle recalled them on the run to their boats. The last boatload had hardly reached the destroyer's side when she lifted her anchor and steamed out of the harbor at full speed.

The broken coast line in this region, with its innumerable coves, has long been one of the favorite regions picked by report for hidden wireless stations and secret submarine bases.

Destroyers Were Armed to Fight If Necessary

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 16.—The American destroyers which went on rescue work during the operations of the German submarine U-53 off Nantucket Shoals Lightship, had every thing ready for battle, it is disclosed here.

The destroyers carried warheads on their torpedoes, ammunition at all guns and were prepared for instant action, especially against the German submarines, according to a letter from Lieutenant Lee Cummins Carey, an officer of the United States destroyer Benham, to his father, W. Lee Carey of Baltimore.

The Benham participated in the rescue of persons from the ships destroyed by the U-53 and came within a few yards of ramming the German submarine, Lieutenant Carey declared. His letter follows:

"On Saturday the German submarine U-53 entered Newport harbor and passing quite near the Benham anchored only a quarter mile away. After paying the various official calls, her captain—a lieutenant—sent a signal inviting all American officers aboard, of which invitation we all quickly and gladly availed ourselves.

"After being anchored about three hours, she quickly got up anchor and again was at sea in a few minutes, lost in the haze, but proudly flying the imperial German navy flag as far as we could see.

"At about 1 o'clock Sunday, while we had several guests aboard for luncheon, we received a signal 'Get under way immediately. Proceed, assistance, steamship West Point, ten miles south Nantucket Shoals lightship.' At this time only two officers were on the ship, the other three being ashore and about half the crew were ashore. We quickly put our guests in a boat, and in ten minutes we were all in a wild race for the West Point.

"On the way out we got a signal, 'Prepare for action. Render assistance. We are attacked by German submarines.' By this time we already had warheads on our torpedoes and ammunition at all guns, and everything in readiness for action.

"At about 4 o'clock we arrived at the scene of action and almost immediately saw the Holland-American liner Bloemendijk in trouble and her crew getting in small boats. We ran up near, took her captain, officers and crew on board, which was rather difficult for there was quite a sea running.

"By this time it was sunset and the lights of the steamer were quite bright. About 200 yards away we could see the submarine. In a few minutes she came alongside the steamer, placed a bomb aboard and then drew away to watch the result, but when it went off it did little damage.

"The U-53 then came near us and asked us to please get further away as she was going to blow the steamer up. This we did, keeping on the side away from the submarine and in a few minutes she fired a torpedo, opening a great gap in the ship's side and then gradually the ship began to fill by the stern.

"Gradually the stern settled deeper and deeper, but still her dynamos were going, for she went down with all lights burning and four Dutch flags proudly flying in the air. Finally her bow was pointing almost straight into the air, and still her forward lights were burning, which was fact mystified me, and then one wild plunge and she was no more. We quickly passed near her and but a buoy over to mark her grave.

"In the distance we could see a great liner and this the submarine saw, too, for she immediately shaped her course toward the oncoming ship. We followed along in the wake of the U-53 to watch her in her work. She now sent a signal to the ship (telephone) telling her to put her crew and passengers in boats immediately. As she did this the Haleh took all her people on board and then drew away.

"Suddenly the submarine put all lights out and disappeared and we went ahead, at twenty-five knots and approached near the Stephano, but suddenly, directly ahead, the submarine turned on her lights and we just missed ramming her by a few yards.

"The submarine now went alongside the ship and took about an hour taking what they wanted, while we, only a few yards away, watched her. She then drew away a couple of hundred yards and began firing her guns at the ship. Round after round she fired. We counted twenty-seven, but they did no material damage other than opening up a few holes, etc., and gave us some beautiful fireworks to gaze at.

WAR SUMMARY

The furious fighting of last week on the Somme front, in which the Germans were able to repulse substantially all the allied attacks, developed today into even more desperate fighting.

The French reported that their troops had fought their way ahead into the streets of the little town of Sailly-Saillisel, which is on the Bapaume-Peronne road, two miles north of Rancourt.

This advance is of no direct importance. It is in line with the general movement of the allied forces, however, by which their quarter-circular line from north of Thiepval to Bauchavesnes is being gradually pushed north and east.

And the advance amounted to a gain of only about a hundred yards on a short front. The Germans for a week now have been able to withstand the utmost efforts of the allies. Whether they can continue to hold their present line is an interesting question.

On the Rumanian front, save at isolated points, the Rumanian retreat continues. The fighting on the Transylvanian frontier is practically on the border line between Austria and Rumania, and the Rumanians have been driven out of all that Transylvanian territory which they occupied without opposition when they entered the war.

Fighting that is related in its strategical significance has occurred in the lower Carpathians, where the Russians had been trying to break through into Transylvania. There the Germans recaptured Smotrec, the dominant summit; and the Austrians in the Kirlibaba passes drove back the Russians and took some 400 prisoners. Russian attacks elsewhere were repulsed.

North and west of Salonica fighting continues to be on a small scale. The Teutonic allies are on the defensive and the British allies are making only the mildest of attacks.

Teutonic attacks in the Dobrudja are reported by Petrograd as having been repulsed.

FRENCH MAKE NEW GAINS ON SOMME

By CHARLES F. BERTELLI,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Oct. 16.—Another outburst of violent fighting has developed on the Somme. North of the river the French, extending their drive, have penetrated Sailly-Saillisel, the French War Office announced today.

The Germans pushed home powerful counter-attacks and the fighting which thus developed is continuing, according to the communique. After entering the German position at Sailly Saillisel the French engaged the Germans in the streets and were able to occupy some of the houses along the Bapaume highway. The fighting then extended to the cellars and subterranean forts of the Germans, where in the darkness of these caves the men fought hand to hand with bayonets and bombs."

The French attack at Sailly Saillisel followed assaults by the British near Thiepval and French attacks around Ablainzourt at the extreme southern end of the front.

The text of the official statement follows:

"North of the Somme we penetrated last night the village of Sailly-Saillisel and occupied houses in the outskirts.

"From the Bapaume road, as far as Cardonnel, the enemy attacked very violently. The combat continues.

"South of the Somme we repulsed a German attack against Saint Loi Wood.

"There was comparative calm on the rest of the front.

"Despite the bad weather our aviators engaged in seven aerial combats. One enemy machine was brought down."

LAFAYETTE SAFE FROM SEA RAIDER

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 16.—Carrying many distinguished persons and defying the U-boat menace, the French liner Lafayette arrived here today from Bordeaux. A constant lookout for submarines was maintained throughout the voyage, particularly off the French and American coasts.

Passengers did not learn of the activities of the U-53 off Nantucket until the boat reached port.

The ship's officers had been informed of the U-boat's raid, and as a result lifeboats were swung out for three days after the vessel left Bordeaux. Off Nantucket the Lafayette followed a zigzag course.

The Lafayette, the finest passenger French ship afloat, carried 224 persons, including Enrico Caruso, singer; Frank A. Munsey and S. S. McClure, publishers; Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Miss Anne Morgan, John J. Barrett of the Pan-American Union and Gatti-Casazza.

RUSSIAN SUBMARINE CAPTURES TURK SHIP

Petrograd, Oct. 16.—An official Admiralty statement announces that the Russian submarine Tulen, after an engagement lasting an hour near the Bosphorus, captured the Turkish 6,000 ton armed war transport Rodosto. The transport, which was commanded by German officers, was taken to Sebastopol.

ITALIANS ADVANCE ON TRENTINO FRONT

Rome, Oct. 16.—Italian troops in the Trentino have made farther progress in their advance toward Mt. Roite, according to the Italian official statement. In the region of Cosmagnon an entire Austro-Hungarian battery, composed of four guns, and a large amount of ammunition, were captured by the Italians.

SLAV ATTACKS MADE TO SAVE RUMANIA

London, Oct. 16.—Russia and Italy are acting in unison in an effort to weaken the Teuton pressure against Rumania. Following the renewal of the Italian offensive the Russians are making violent attacks in Galicia and Volhynia. Dispatches from Petrograd dwell upon the fierceness of the fighting in the Carpathians and in Stokhod River front in Volhynia.

The effect of this double drive is to prevent the Austro-Germans from sending reinforcements to the armies of Von Falkenhayn and Von Mackensen and to compel the Teutons, if possible, to move the troops from the Transylvanian and Dobrudja theatres of war to meet the new pressure.

The resumption of the drives toward Lemburg by the Russians and Trieste by the Italians is already showing results. Bucharest reports that the Austro-German armies are being held up on the frontier except at one point where Von Falkenhayn's men were able to penetrate six miles to Predeal, which has developed near Rucsru where desperate efforts are being made by the Rumanians to force back the Teutons.

In Dobrudja the roar of battle is heard all along the Danube. Von Mackensen's hosts are making a tremendous effort to cross the river, but are being held by Rumanian forces. At many points long range artillery duels are taking place across the stream.

Fighting is in progress all along the line in Macedonia. The Bulgarians have been unavailing efforts during the past forty-eight hours to force the Serbians back. They are losing heavily. British artillery is pounding the important Greek city of Serres, which is held by the Bulgars.

LAFAYETTE SAFE FROM SEA RAIDER

Italian Drive Is Checked, Says Vienna

By International News Service.

Vienna, Oct. 16.—The Austro-Hungarian War Office announces that the new Italian offensive movement has been checked. Between the Adriatic and the heights southwest of Gorizia the Italians used 300,000 infantrymen in their attacks upon the Austro-Hungarian position.

The following official statement was made public today:

"Since Friday the cossaland front has been quieter. The Italian attack can be considered repulsed as a result of the fighting on October 11. The enemy had concentrated against our southern wing.

"Between Peravalle and the heights southeast of Gorizia we were faced by the Italian third army and parts of the second army, numbering about sixteen divisions, with the Italians' most powerful artillery and mine throwers. Our brave defenders withstood for one week the heaviest of this fire and then fiercely, during three days, uninterrupted attacks of an enemy numerically superior. Finally their losses compelled the Italians to desist from attacking."

Allies Lost 74 Aeroplanes in Month.

By International News Service.

Berlin via Sayville, Oct. 16.—Seventy-four British and French aeroplanes were destroyed or captured by the Germans in September according to official figures given out through the Overseas News Agency today. Fifty-three of the machines were British and twenty-one French. Among the French aeroplanes were nine Caltrons, eleven Nieuports and one Murano. Among the British machines were one Nieuport, one Bristol, three Avros, seven Vickers, seven Martinsynes, one Sopwith and two Farmans. Twenty-three of the aeroplanes were burned and the inmates were beyond identification.

The agency makes this comment:

"This publication illustrates the value of the declaration recently made by Premier Asquith in the House of Commons that English aeroplanes had gained full domination of the air. The allies never give precise detailed reports about the air successes they claim."

Bulgars Repulse Attacks of Serbs

Sofia, via London, Oct. 16.—Repulses by the Bulgarians of all attacks on the whole Macedonian front was announced by the War Office this afternoon.

A violent assault by a Serbian division between the Monastir road and the railway was beaten back with heavy losses, it is stated, and two repetitions were equally fruitless. There was stubborn fighting on the Cserna, the Bulgars warding off hostile advances by hand grenade bombardments.

Declare Ministers of Allies Confess Failure

By International News Service.

Berlin, via Sayville, Oct. 16.—Recent official utterances of the British and French prime ministers are quoted by the military critic of the Overseas News Agency as proving "the military superiority of the central powers." He writes:

"M. Briand says that peace, if made at the present moment, ought to be called 'a German peace.'

"Premier Asquith declares that peace at the present juncture would be 'a German triumph.'

"They both, therefore, confess that the great offensive of the entente so far has failed. At the same time the confession proves the shallowness of the triumphant words."

Sixty Los Angeles women gave her $1,250, as a starter for the fund, she said.

CASEMENT PLEA ARRIVED IN TIME

Shadow Lawn, N. J., Oct. 16.—It was learned today that the Senate resolution seeking clemency for Roger Casement reached England before the execution took place. It was considered by the British government, but without result.

The information concerning the Casement resolution was contained in a letter written today by Secretary Tumulty to Michael P. Doyle, associate counsel for Casement. The letter in part follows:

"For many weeks a futile effort has been made by partisans to make a political issue of the fact that the resolution passed by the Senate with reference to the execution of Sir Roger Casement was not immediately forwarded to the British Foreign Office. I have taken up the latter with Mr. Frank Polk, who at the time was acting secretary of State.

"In discussing this matter Mr. Polk, in his letter says:

"It can be said that the State Department discussed the Sir Roger Casement matter with the British ambassador on several occasions, informally, before the passage of the senate resolution; that the Senate resolution was prepared on Saturday and that the ambassador at once conveyed the information to the British government on Saturday, the day before the execution. When the ambassador and I were discussing the subject he showed me a cable from his government stating that the government had considered the Casement case and the resolution of the Senate and had come to the conclusion that in view of all the circumstances it could not grant clemency.

"Particular stress was laid, I recall, by the British Government on the fact that Irish in Germany who refused to assist Casement had been punished. The statements made to letters to Mrs Newmann that had the resolution been presented in time her brother's life would have been spared were utterly and entirely without foundation. You can state authoritatively that the ambassador read me the above sentence from his government stating that the resolution had been considered."

JAPS TO FORGET CALIFORNIA LAND LAW

By STUART GODWIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Oct. 16.—The new regime in Japan is preparing to forget the controversy over the California law forbidding Japanese citizens to own land in that State. Ambassador Sato, the new Japanese diplomatic representative here, made this plain today in an interview with a representative of the International News Service. He also expressed as his opinion that Japan will in every possible way demonstrate her friendship toward the United States.

This statement is interpreted by students of the situation in the Far East to remove for the present, at least, one of the largest under-the-surface causes for friction which has jeopardized relations between the United States and Japan.

"We realize in Japan that the constitutional restrictions which prevents the federal government from interfering with the State of California," the ambassador said today.

The new ambassador will, however, press the protest against the alleged inclusion in the Burnett immigration bill to come before the Senate next December of the Japanese as among the "inferior" races that cannot enter America. Ambassador Chinda, predecessor of the present diplomatic representative of Tokio, twice protested to the President against the portion of the Burnett bill understood to prevent, by inference and a roundabout fashion, the naturalization of Japanese.

"My government is convinced that the Burnett law, while it makes no direct mention of the Japanese," Ambassador Sato said, "is designed to prevent the naturalization of Japanese citizens in this country. Against such legislation we shall continue to protest. However, that matter is not pressing, because Congress is not in session now and nothing immediate can be done."

The ambassador expects to go to Shadow Lawn very shortly, possibly the latter part of this week, to call upon the President formally and present his credentials. He has already presented his credentials to the Secretary of State.

BOSTONIAN SEES LONDON AIR RAID

New York, Oct. 16.—J. A. Green of Boston, arriving here aboard the American liner St. Paul, tells of witnessing the last Zeppelin raid over London. He related a new detail of the British air defense, declaring that every Zeppelin that had been brought down in England had been struck by a type of flaming dart dropped from aeroplanes and not by anti-aircraft gunfire.

CAN'T FORCE ICE MAN TO SELL TO ALL

The Supreme Judicial Court ruled today that a iceman delivering to regular customers is not obliged to sell ice to persons outside of his regular list of patrons.

His refusal to sell the full bench says, is not a violation of the law which requires persons selling ice from a wagon to sell to anyone who wishes from five to fifty cents worth.

The court rules that the wording of the statute on this point limits its application to carts peddling ice and does not include delivery wagons sent out to perform contracts, that is, to deliver to regular customers.

William W. Woods, an Orange iceman, fought a case clear up to the Supreme bench and won on this decision. He refused to sell an Orange meat dealer a fifty-cent piece of ice and was found guilty in the local court of breaking the "sell to anybody" law.

Woods appealed on the ground that the meat man was not one of his regular customers. Judge Sisk in the Franklin Superior Court ordered the jury to bring in a verdict of guilty and then imposed a $10 fine. Woods took it up to the Supreme Court on exceptions.

MINISTERS PRAY FOR SUNDAY.

A hundred Boston ministers prayed today for the success of the campaign at a meeting in Park Street Church. This Monday meeting will be continued regularly till Billy Sunday comes.

The Baptist ministers held their regular meeting in Chipman Hall today. The Rev. G. R. Maguire, pastor of the Ruggles Street Church, Roxbury, was in charge. Every one in his church is working for the campaign. More than 145 men, besides women and young people, are enrolled in some sort of work.

Prayer meetings are making great advances in many sections of Boston. According to the Rev. Charles L. Pace of the prayer meeting committee, 50,000 persons will be enrolled in this service in two weeks.

Caretaker W. C. Manning of the Billy Sunday tabernacle grounds, who shows visitors around and explains the different sections, was formerly a showman at Revere Beach. He says Joys his present position as caretaker of the Billy Sunday grounds and talks daily to hundreds of visitors.

"You'll find all sorts of people around the grounds to the tabernacle asking all kinds of question," he says.

MANY QUESTIONERS.

"I've seen a great many things in my day and heard a great many people ask questions about shows, but this tabernacle business is more interesting than anything I've run across.

"Religion must be getting popular, they say to me, they see the size of the tabernacle. I tell them it is popular here on Huntington avenue. Students poke their heads in every morning when they are going to their studies. I think many of them will hit the trail when Billy Sunday comes along.

"They ask me if I am going to hit the trail. I just tell them I am practicing every morning on that trail business."

Thirty-six stoves have arrived. They will be put in boxes of sand. Smaller stoves will be used for the rooms on each side of the large platform, back of the choir seats.

These stoves will be centres of gatherings after the regular meeting has closed. People will be invited to meet for half an hour around these stoves and discuss religion or topics of the evening.

DETROIT DRY FOR DAY, RESULT OF BILLY SUNDAY

By ELIAS A. M'QUAID.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 16.—Having suffered, or enjoyed, her first dry Sunday since about the time of Lafayette, Detroit was all aroused up today and ready to listen to former Governor J. Frank Hanley of Indiana, Prohibition candidate for President. Mr. Hanley speaks tonight in the Central M. E. Church, not many blocks from the Billy Sunday tabernacle. Monday is the evangelist's day of rest and the tabernacle will be dark until tomorrow afternoon.

Sunday's talk on "Booze" one week ago yesterday to two audiences of at least 20,000 men, was followed by a Detroit Sunday as dry as a codfish in a marked contrast to the Sabbath. The tip was that it will all blow over after election day, when Billy Sunday has gone, and resurrection the big city was dry. The wets had the Detroit opera house for the afternoon, and here Clarence S. Darrow, of Chicago, famous as the national attorney for organized labor, delivered an address on "prohibition and labor."

The house was crowded. Darrow was presented by the President of the Detroit Federation of Labor. The business representative of the cigarmakers was chairman. Mr. Darrow took the stand the antithesis of a humbug, a menace to labor and injustice to the workingman and his future.

Mr. Sunday spoke to three immense gatherings. In the morning his topic was "The Holy Spirit." In the afternoon a congregation of 12,000 men heard him discuss "How to Be Less Than a Man." Three hundred and thirty-eight men turned their way to the sawdust trail.

Before the sermon Billy had in any of the "Dry Sunday" order of the new police commissioners. Mr. Couzens, I think, is the man of the hour. Jim has taken to exceedingly comfortable."

It was announced today that William Jennings Bryan and Richmond Pearson Hobson would come to Michigan to line up with sunday and the Prohibitionists and make the State "Dry." Sunday himself says he hasn't really "started" yet.

TELL OF RESCUE FROM SINKING COLLIER

Three weeks and two days on a sinking ship with water pouring in through holes and the men in shifts pumping the water out and planning for a way to save and take them from the doomed vessel is the story told by the survivors of the wrecked Peter C. Smith, and were brought to Boston this morning by the steamer Calvin from Yarmouth.

The Smith is a coal vessel valued at the Atlantic Ridge Coal Co. of New York, and bound from Port Hastings, N. S., to Halifax. A collision and spring leaks in the hull made it sag and the two big vessel pumps were kept busy, the crew manning the hand pumps working in shifts and watching for a little steam soon and then.

Captain H. H. Lawson of New York tells the following story:

"The Peter C. Smith put out from Port Elizabeth with coal bound for Halifax on September 27. Fair weather and a smooth sea favored us until we came to within twenty miles of the Grand Manan. Here we ran into one of the worst northeast gales that it has been my lot to encounter in over twenty years on the sea. This was on the night of October 2.

DISCOVERED LEAKS.

"Just before dawn of the tenth we found the collier had sprung two bad leaks. There were two good gasoline pumps on board and one hand pump. We started the gas pumps, but in a couple of hours we found that the water was gaining. Up until this we thought that we were fairly safe, but when the mate investigated and found that there was almost five feet of water in the hold, we decided that we were up against it. Only one of us had ever been in a shipwreck before, although every man was an old hand at the sea.

"Just as we were giving up hope, the steamer Calvin, of Gloucester, fishing off the Grand Banks, picked up our right close to the northern edge of Georges Bank.

"Less than three hours later we looked through the glasses and saw the old Peter C. Smith going to her last port at the bottom of the sea.

VERY WELL TREATED.

"I can tell you that there never was a lot of more thankful sailors than we were. The captain of the Calvin, they call him 'Slim' Hipson, because he never says anything, treated us in fine shape."

Dan Walker, the big, burly, good natured mate of the collier said when he got aboard the Calvin: "I'm all at sea and a sinking ship. I have always heard that rats would desert a sinking ship, but I have never seen that I have shipped on all kinds of vessels. I have never had a ship that sprung a leak but the night before we sighted the leak, rats in the hold set up the most unearthly racket and then ran over board. I thought that they had gone mad and were fighting, but when I went down to see about them all was all hush, but the next time I looked in on them I saw the rats begin to squeal, that's just the time that I quit, and see about getting aboard. It was a fine old puff of wind."

Arnold Petersen shipped as a sailor when but a boy, and has been one of the rocky coasts of the Norwegian fjords and Norway as a result of the wrecks. "This experience was easy," he said. "You should go off the coast of Norway in a small boat watching your small supply of water and with a half a dozen pieces of hard tack every one of which is mold, and that would be a real shipwreck."

Hugh Donnelly is the cook. "Aw, what's the ace," he allowed." I am an ace man, I didn't care whether we went up or down."

The rescued crew hails from various parts of the globe. Captain H. H. Lawson from New York city, as is mate Dan Walker. Arnold Petersen is a native of Norway, and Carleton Nielsen, claims Finland as his home. Hugh Donnelly, cook, and Albert Boardman, deck hand, claim Maine, coming from Eastport, Me., and Lubec, Me., respectively, while Terrence Casey hails from Portland, Oregon.

Housemaids May Demand Higher Pay in Boston

Minimum wage for housemaids, $7 a week.

Working time, ten hours a day.

This is the outcome of the organization of the Household Assistants' Union from which it is predicted today is likely to spread to Boston.

Already housemaids in Philadelphia have struck for $7 a week.

And the worst, from the housework point of view, is in store.

Because the housemaids are now going to affiliate the washwomen and scrubwomen, who are expected to demand a minimum of $2 a day and eight hours of that as a routine.

MUNSTERBERG GIVES PLAN FOR PEACE

Professor Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard laid down two essentials for a lasting peace to follow the war in an address on "Reconstruction After the War" at the St. Marks Baptist Church, New York. He said that

1. Britain must give up the attempt to throttle Germany.

2. Germany must give up any thought of holding Belgium.

With these two steps accomplished, he said, he believed a lasting peace might be hoped for.

The fundamental warfare to end, between England and Germany, is only understanding and sympathy between these two nations can be the foundation for real peace.

Unless Britain gives up the attempt to throttle Germany, and Germany gives up the idea that Belgium is hers, the war will simply lay the foundation for other wars.

He said that the mediation of the United States is the first step toward peace. He said all Nations must hope for the early mediation.

TO AVOID FUTURE WAR.

The nations of the world should "disarm" and Professor Munsterberg said that

"The only way to avoid a repetition of the state of peace after this war shall not contain the germs of future wars, is to disarm. Every soldier, every gun, every ship of war of England were to attempt to throttle Germany would be a crime which would have the condemnation of the civilized world. In the establishment of peace care should be taken that there be no cause for jealousy of armament remains.

"Above all, Germany and England should be brought together. The great hope that the United States will soon mediate between these nations is based on the fact that we have no fear of any selfish wants such a peace. The wishes of the United States are purely unselfish now as we want such a peace. And as soon as the nations are brought together for peace talks, as soon as Germany and England are brought together in good-will, such a peace will be established.

"Mediation is the faithful belief that people is nothing to the material value of that human spiritual contribution to the world. This belief must be brought together. The nations are worse, for that they are different.

IDEALS IN EVERY NATION.

"Ideals in every nation, sweeping over the world. He thinks are a wonderful country. The effect of the war has accentuated the emotions of individual idealism, but at the same time has created the emotions of individual idealism. This nationalistic idealism has taken hold of all of the nations of the globe. The people of each of them realize that national organization is necessary for self-protection, but the nations must be organized. This spirit will grow tremendously after the war, and in order to keep their self-respect a new self-consciousness.

"Out of this will grow a new sense of internationalism. Through the war the nations have learned that the individual nation is not the foundation on which to establish

"Only international law is to make a lasting foundation and a lasting peace, however, the nations must not be bound by treaties, but by the spirit of international law. The first lesson is that these nations abandon all ideas of narrow nationalism that will lead to war. The second lesson is to see that the individuals, or the statesmen or the workmen would present their claims.

"And the second lesson that the statistics show that every nation has known treason under the pressure of national life and that the Supreme Court has recognized the fact that treason is not a crime.

"Also, the statistics show that no nation has ever been at war, and that there is no question which

"We must not forget that a group of nations

"We must bring all the nations together in good will and make them understand each other."

"We cannot disturb the old natural balance of our food supply and get away with it. We may deceive ourselves, but we Can't Cheat Nature."

—Dr. Goudiss, Editor The Forecast Magazine.

This "old natural balance" is simply Nature's perfect arrangement and proportioning of food elements in our food supply for perfect building of body, brain and nerves. Modern commercialism destroys this "balance," when, in milling flour it casts out (to make it white) most of the mineral elements so essential to health.

Grape-Nuts

retains this "old natural balance" of nutritional values in its scientific blend of whole wheat and barley flours, including their vital mineral salts.

Ready to eat, easily digested, delicious—every table should have its daily ration of Grape-Nuts.

"There's a Reason"

FIND CAUSE OF INFANTILE PLAGUE

ly that raw food containing the germ of infantile paralysis.

The investigators are so certain that this is true and that there is no other way for the disease to be contracted, that they suggest that the quarantine be raised against personal contact and that all raw foods such as milk, water, fruits, etc., be sterilized, boiled or cooked before being given to children or others.

FLIES HELP THE SPREAD.

The investigators find that house flies and other insects undoubtedly help to spread the germ from one food to another.

This discovery is the first one that has been given out officially by Johns Hopkins Hospital before it has been published in a recognized medical journal.

The rule is broken for the first time in order to clear up the mystery surrounding the disease as quickly as possible and in order to allow the schools and business to go on as usual.

The spread of the disease is so much like that of typhoid fever and its method of communication that the investigators are sure they have hit upon a way to make an anti-poliomyelitis vaccine like the anti-typhoid vaccine that stamped out typhoid in the United States army.

Experiments are now being carried on in rabbits and other animals to show that milk makes the germ grow and spreads it from the colon into the lymph and nerve fibre of the intestines and thence into the spinal cord, where they attack the vital spots.

Doctors Here Hope Germ Is Discovered

Boston physicians were interested today in the dispatch from Baltimore which said that Dr. Horace T. Burrows of Johns Hopkins Hospital, had discovered the infantile paralysis germ. Some Boston doctors of note do not share the theory that has been advanced by the distinguished Baltimore pathologist.

Others refused to comment on the situation until more particulars are learned. Everyone is hopeful, however, that the mystery as to the origin of the disease has been lifted.

Dr. Philip A. E. Shepard of Dorchester, an expert on infantile paralysis, who did much work when he was a member of the special commission appointed by the State some years ago, said:

"RIGHT AND WRONG."

"I think that Dr. Burrows is both right and wrong. Undoubtedly some of the disease germs enter the stomach, but I do not believe we have sufficient data to say positively that all the germs enter the system in this way. In some cases the germ enters by direct contact, and by indirect contact. I believe that the germ may be inhaled by the spray issued by those suffering from the disease. Often, of course, it enters the system in food or drink."

Dr. Milton J. Rosenau of the Harvard Medical School, one of the foremost authorities on infantile paralysis in New England, said:

"If the report from Baltimore is true, as stated, it will be of great help to medical science and to the public. At the present time, however, I do not feel as if I could comment on the discovery, as I have had no opportunity of studying Dr. Burrows' report."

DOUBTS THE THEORY.

Dr. Arthur C. Peirce, instructor at Tufts Medical School, said:

"I am inclined to doubt the theory of Dr. Burrows, that the infantile paralysis germ is introduced into the stomach by means of food and drink. The gastric juices serve as an active foe to germs and it is pretty hard for any germ to survive in their presence. In fact the juices destroy almost everything but the stomach itself.

"The tonsils and the teeth would furnish a better lodging place for the germs than the stomach, in my opinion. I am also inclined to doubt the theory that the cold weather will cut the disease to rout. In proof and in refutation of my contention, we have the case of Sweden, where epidemics occur in the Winter, when the weather is very cold."

Dr. Francis D. Donoghue, No. 884 Boston street, instructor in Clinical Surgery at Tufts Medical School, said:

"I think the theory of Dr. Burrows that the germs of infantile paralysis enter the human system through the mouth and into the stomach in food or drink is the most plausible of the many theories that have been entertained regarding the disease."

Three Babies Die of Paralysis.

Three deaths, one in South Boston, one in Watertown and a third in Quincy, thirty-two new cases reported in the State for the past forty-eight hours, including eight in Boston in twenty-four hours and the illness of a Phillips Academy pupil at Andover were features of the infantile paralysis epidemic today.

The deaths are:

John E. Waldron, three years, of No. 282 Bowen street, South Boston.

Elitra Barbato, one year, daughter of Joseph Barbato, No. 141 Pleasant street, Watertown. For several days this child had not moved. When a physician was called to the house he said the child had been dead two hours.

Salvucchi, one and one-half years, No. 10 Conant street, Quincy, ill twenty-four hours.

The Phillips Andover patient is J. A. Backus of Nantucket, who boards in a private house on Main street in the academy town. Dispatches from Andover say this was the first case there and that the academy authorities had taken prompt measures.

FOUR IN SOUTH BOSTON.

The seven new cases reported in Boston in addition to the death in South Boston, were bulletined by the city health authorities as follows:

Margaret Keeley, three, No. 175 Bolton street, South Boston.

Annie Harrington, three, No. 402 Second street, South Boston.

Bridget Malyska, two, No. 688 Dorchester avenue, South Boston.

Dorothy White, four, No. 29 Storey street, South Boston.

Israel Cohen, one, No. 1123 Harrison avenue, South End.

James Madden, four, No. 5 Heath place, Roxbury.

Dorothy Quigley, eight, No. 46 Lambert street, Roxbury.

While thirty-two cases were reported by the State Health Department, it was for the forty-eight-hour period ending at 9 a. m.

This was an average of sixteen cases a day for Sunday and Monday. Dr. McLaughlin, the State health commissioner, said:

"This is the most hopeful day we have had since July 17."

The report today shows a swift decline in the number of cases reported. For the first ten days of the month the average was twenty-seven cases a day, as against sixteen cases a day for the past two days.

AVERAGE IS LOWER.

The average for the first sixteen days of the month, including the past two days, is twenty-five cases a day, as against an average of sixteen for the past two days.

The daily average for September was twenty-one cases, so that the past two days have cut under that month's average.

The total thus far this month is 398, with the month half gone. The total for September was 626.

SAILORS ACCUSE TWO 'CLUBMEN'

monds Thursday. Meet us at 9 o'clock Thursday evening at same place as last Monday.

"H. WILKINSON."

This telegram fell into the hands of officers on the Washington. The sailor was put through a cross-examination and he is alleged to have told what happened after the meeting with "Wilkinson" and "Edwards" on the previous Monday. The police were satisfied and the sailor was sent to the trysting place to point out the two men. He was accompanied by Police Officers Allen John J. Murphy and Lennon. H. Hewitt. He pointed out "Wilkinson" and "Edwards" and they were arrested.

When he was being booked at the station house the man who was registered at the National House as "Wilkinson," gave his name as Robert M. Winthrop of Boston. He said he was forty-five years old. The prisoner had gray hair and a short mustache. He was of medium height and wore glasses. Among his effects the police say they found a bill from a Paris hotel made out to Robert M. Winthrop and other correspondence bearing the same name.

GAVE NAME AS ENDICOTT.

The man who was registered at the hotel under the name of "S. W. Edwards," told the police his name was Francis Endicott. He also said he was from Boston and gave his age as thirty-six. The man was about five feet ten inches tall, with a smooth face and medium complexion. He also wore glasses. Both men look as though they had spent much time out of doors.

PLENTY OF COAL IN BOSTON YARDS

The fact that New York city is threatened with a coal shortage does not worry the Boston dealers. If you've got the price you can get all the coal you want.

It was learned today that the New York dealers were up against labor difficulties, and that shipments were greatly delayed owing to the monopolization of railroad transportation by the munition industries. The shortage applies to both hard and soft coal.

10 HOURS PAY FOR 8 HOURS FOR 12,000

Binghamton, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Announcement was made today that Endicott & Johnson, owners of the largest group of shoe factories in the world, will establish an eight-hour day system in all of their factories beginning November 1. Twelve thousand men are affected. They will receive ten hours pay for eight hours work.

REFUSE TO CHANGE ELECTION HOURS

The election commissioners today reported against a proposition to change the present election hours of 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. to 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.

QUERY SON-IN-LAW IN BENNETT DEATH

New Bedford, Oct. 16.—Warren Gould, son-in-law of William J. Bennett of Lynn, who was murdered in the glow of electric lights at the waiting station near the Fairhaven bridge, was closely questioned by the State police, who are seeking to solve the mystery of Bennett's death. Mr. Gould remained calm and cool throughout the examination.

So far as is known F. Hathaway, a driver for James L. Humphrey, was the only witness of the murder. His description of the man who struck Bennett has caused a Fairhaven man to be suspected of knowledge of the crime, and he is being closely examined by the police, both as regards his knowledge of the murder and as to his past. It is believed that an arrest may be made at any hour.

The theory that Bennett was murdered as the result of mistaken identity has been dismissed. The police have been unable to discover that the man had any enemies in Lynn, and as he was in Fairhaven only 48 hours before his death, it is not probable, they feel, that he made enemies there.

Mr. Hathaway has been unable to identify anybody, although one suspect corresponds in height, weight and general appearance.

Jaffery

Now Dramatized for Motion Pictures

This man loved two women thinking he loved but one. Was it conscious and subconscious love?

"The unexplained sex phenomenon," William J. Locke, the great novelist, calls the situation he has pictured in his most popular novel.

The man in this situation is a great hearted, loyal man who had made Quixotic sacrifices that the one woman whom he knew he loved might tread the stony paths of life without hurt to her delicate feet. One woman is a dainty flower of society, cherished and protected on every hand.

The other woman is a spirited, dynamic child of the Balkans—the daughter of a bandit chief.

MORTON PRINCE, BOSTON AVIATOR KILLED BY GERMAN IN AIR DUEL

Norman Prince, the Boston aviator who died in France, was shot in an air duel with a German aviator, cable dispatches from Paris said today.

His death resulted as much from the bullet wound he received as from the injuries he sustained in landing.

The bullet from the enemy airman struck him in the body. Prince made a gallant attempt to effect a safe landing. He kept the machine under control until he had almost reached the ground. Then, the loss of blood having weakened him, he collapsed, and the aeroplane crashed to the earth. Both of the aviator's legs were broken, and he was otherwise badly injured by the fall.

Cable dispatches also state that Prince will be buried in France.

Frederick H. Prince, the millionaire Boston banker, who is ill at his beautiful Summer home, Princemere, Beverly farms, has not yet been told of his son's death.

At the Prince home today it was said that the family had received no word regarding the funeral arrangements. Mr. Prince is not seriously ill, it was said at his home, but until his condition improves he will not be informed of the death of his son.

The banker's illness, at one time regarded as serious, added to the profound shock to the family in the tidings from France.

The noted war aviator's death followed a few days after his latest honors from the French War Office.

The airman's father is reported to be stricken with typhoid fever. His mother who was one of the first to hear the news, was said to be bearing up fairly well under her burden of sorrow.

News of his death saddened the North Shore colony, in which young Prince was a general favorite.

HONORED BY FRENCH.

Young Prince was a sergeant-major in the Franco-American Aviation Corps and had been awarded both the Croix de Guerre and the Medaille Militaire by the French government. Again and again he had been mentioned in the official reports for his bravery.

News of his death today was followed by a Paris dispatch stating that his close friend, Sergeant Lufberry of New Haven, and also in the aviation corps in France, had been mentioned as bringing down his fifth aeroplane in the war.

Lufberry is mentioned officially as having shot down his fifth machine in the recent allied air raid over the Mauser rifle factories at Obendorf, Germany.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Sub titute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c.

Don't Let Your Truss Make Operation Necessary

Operation for rupture would hardly ever be heard of if it weren't for the mischief done by elastic and spring trusses.

Mighty few people ever have to be operated on when first ruptured.

But wearing makeshift trusses year after year is sooner or later almost sure to make work for the surgeon.

You know that from your own experience—you know you're worse now than a year ago—probably getting worse all the time.

If you keep on that way, how long will it be before you'll have to undergo a dangerous and expensive operation?

Aren't you willing to let us prove—by a sixty-day demonstration—how you can save yourself from all that?

Especially when you can make this sixty-day test without having to risk a penny?

60 Days' Trial to Prove How Good It Is

Here is something—a guaranteed rupture holder—which has saved thousands of people from ever having to be operated on.

It has so thoroughly proved its merits that we are willing to stand it on 60 days' trial.

We make it especially for your ease—make it to your measure—and practically bind it to you for 60 days.

If it doesn't keep your rupture from coming out or from bothering you in any way, then you can send it back and it won't cost you a single penny.

Don't Send Any Money

Simply write for our free book—that will tell you everything you want to know.

It shows how our guaranteed rupture holder is made on an absolutely new principle. How it instantly and automatically protects you against every strain so your rupture can't possibly be forced out. And how in addition it provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture.

The book tells how our guaranteed rupture holder—the famous Cluthe—is so beneficial that physicians in all parts of America now recommend it instead of advising operation. How it has completely cured thousands of people whose cases seemed almost hopeless. How it does away with the curse of belts, leg-straps and springs. How it is perspiration-proof and water-proof and will hold in the bath. How you can try it 60 days without having to risk a penny, and how little it costs if you keep it.

This Free Book Is Full of Facts Never Before Put in Print

This book sums up all we have learned about rupture during forty years of experience.

Shows you how any elastic and spring truss are the ruptured man's worst enemies.

Explains the humbug "appliances," "methods," "exercises," "treatments."

Explains why operation is nearly always needless and dangerous with modern and why, even if you manage to live through it you may be no better off, or worse, in the end.

It shows why sixty-days trial is the only way we can figure during forty years of experience.

Shows you that only elastic and spring truss are the ruptured man's worst enemies.

Harris Off His Stride Passing Remains Weak

Two more Harvard football players have been initiated into the Order of the Muscle Bruise. They are Dug Lovell and Bill Snow. Both received vagrant biffs during Saturday's game with North Carolina and are temporarily out of commission.

In football circles a muscle bruise may mean anything from a cold in the head to a broken spine, to say nothing of caved-in ribs, broken shoulders or other "minor" ailments which the gridiron warrior is heir to.

Coach Leary expects to have several of his invalid brigade back in shape this week. George Carey will probably get into action tomorrow, and "Hank" Flower, the spirited halfback, is also stated to get some work by midweek.

Tom Thacher, left halfback, and Moze Taylor will probably not be able to play against the Aggies Saturday, but the coaches hope to have "Chubby" Clark, the 208-pound guard, on hand again.

BOND STILL ABSENTEE.

Rufe Bond is expected to dress for play late in the week, but will scarcely scrimmage for ten days or more.

Aside from the centre of the rushline, the Harvard forwards showed a vast improvement over their work against Tufts. Harris continued to play poorly, and the backs were several times handicapped by uneven passing on his part.

Twice Eddie Casey, he of the twinkling feet, was the victim of Harris' poor delivery. Casey's brilliant running, his rapidity in reversing the field and keeping on an even keel while doing so, electrified the crowd. Eddie Mahan, a fellow-townsman of Casey's, was not the spectacular runner in his sophomore year that the young Harvard back is now.

Eddie has all along been rated as a substitute, though his wild runs and clever dodging have been features of the three games he has taken part in. It is pretty hard to figure how the Harvard varsity backfield can be made any without commidging this young star.

Captain Dadmun turned in a good day's work, and Walter Wheeler, former Worcester Academy star, also handled himself well. Aside from Casey's spectacular running, the features of the matinee were the nice way it worked Harvard get away its successful passes and Horween's hard rushes.

LEARY HAS BATTLE.

Field Coach Leary was in full charge of the team, and, although Head Coach Haughton was on the bench, in the dugout, he had nothing to do with the general direction of the eleven.

The coaches will probably work the players more easily next week than in the past fortnight, saving the regulars for the harder game with Cornell a dozen days away.

The Massachusetts Aggies are not the formidable team they were last Fall, and the feeling at Cambridge is that the second string men will be able to give a good account of themselves against Saturday's visitors.

ITHACANS AT WORK FOR HARVARD GAME

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Now for the Harvard game. It is the motto at Cornell, and today the Ithacans began preparation for the big game in Cambridge, October 28. Coach Snyder express satisfaction with the showing made against Williams.

No Cornell men were hurt in Saturday's game. Hyerson, the only man taken out, reported in good shape today.

Many N. E. Boys on Georgetown

Washington, Oct. 16.—Georgetown assists Dartmouth in the dedication of the new municipal stadium at Haverhill, Mass., next Saturday.

"We hardly expect Dartmouth's powerful a team as Dartmouth," says Coach Exendine, former Carlisle end, "but Georgetown hopes to hold the Big Green down to a reasonable score."

There are thousands of Georgetown alumni living in New England within easy riding distance of Haverhill, and many are expected to be at the game, lending their support to the team from the nation's capital.

Quite a New England flavor is attached to the Georgetown varsity eleven, as the following lineup and residence cities of the players show:

Left end, Cusack, Washington; left tackle, McCarthy, Boston; left guard, Showalter, Minneapolis, Minn.; centre, Anderson, Somerville, Mass.; right guard, Frank Green, Boston; right tackle, Dan O'Connor, Boston; right end, Larry Greene, Haverhill, Mass.; quarterback, Maloney, Boston; left halfback, Gilfoy, Haverhill, Mass.; right halfback, Wall, Woburn, Mass.; fullback, Leighty, Connellsville, Pa.

Among the other surprises was the Pittsburgh-Navy game. Last year Pitt rolled up something like forty-seven points against the Middies. The score Saturday was: Pitt, 20; Navy, 19—a narrow squeak win for the Smoky City boys.

It was believed that Pittsburgh had a better team than last year, but after its showing against the Navy means one of two things:

(1) Its team is not stronger, or (2) Navy of 1916 is about 100 per cent. better than Navy of 1915.

Cornell got into the spotlight saturday and showed some good football. It scored strong in every department. All of which is not gladdening to the Harvard, which meets Cornell on October 28.

OHIO STARTLES COX.

Ohio State, the junior member of the Western Conference, startled its coming from when it rolled up a 128 to 0 victory over Oberlin. That's about the worst beating any team has given a college in many years.

Syracuse continues to run amuck. It has a great backfield and a tremendously powerful line. Begins to look as if the only way the Orange crew can be beaten is to use a machine gun. Human battering hasn't affected the 200-pound line.

Harvard won, but not impressively. Wouldn't be surprising if the Crimson was whaled over the football fields of 1916.

B. C. Begins Work to Hold Tufts

Coach Charley Brickley began today to prepare his B. C. warriors for next Saturday's game with Tufts. Tierney, varsity tackle, out with a wrenched knee last week, is back with the squad, while Mellen, Lock and other varsity men, who has been on the disabled list, are slated to be out for today's practice.

The squad is set for its stiffest drilling this Fall, several hard scrimmages are due the first of the week against an imaginary Tufts eleven.

"Ruber Hall, former Fordham star, who joined the Boston College forces last week, will coach the backfield in workouts under Trainer Bob Fowler, and is expected to get into the real work today.

ATHLETES WIN NEW HONORS AT HARVARD

William Farr Robinson of Philadelphia, quarterback on the varsity football team; Moseley Taylor, tackle, and John M. Franklin of New York, a crew man, have been nominated as candidates for the presidency of the junior class at Harvard.

Walter E. Boles of Augusta, Me., and Charles L. Harrison, Jr., of Cincinnati, a varsity pitcher, are the nominees for vice-president. Edward W. Little, Jr. of Salem is the sole nominee so far for secretary-treasurer.

CORNELL TICKETS READY.

Applications for tickets for the Harvard-Cornell football game must be made by tomorrow afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the office of the Harvard Athletic Association. Graduates of Cornell University may obtain tickets from their football manager.

TIGERS CAME OUT SOUND.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 16.—The Tigers emerged from Saturday's game with Tufts without any crippled warriors. Head Coach Rush claims that but for constant fumbling Princeton would have scored two touchdowns against the Massachusetts eleven.

COLGATE UPSETS WEST

Third-rate Eastern Eleven Shocks All by Bowling Over Powerful Illinois Outfit.

By FRANK G. MENKE.

Sporting Editor of the International News Service.

All the football world seems a bit topsy turvy today as the result of Saturday's battling on various gridirons.

Many upsets were brought about, but perhaps the most surprising of all was the one whereby the little Colgate eleven walloped Illinois.

Colgate is a third-rate eleven among the big Easterners, while Illinois is regarded as one of the most powerful gridiron outfits in the West. Yet Colgate went out to Urbana, met the crack Illinois team on its own field, and won 15 to 0.

Tufts showed that its victory over Harvard wasn't anything in the nature of a fluke when it held Princeton to a 3 to 0 victory.

Pennsylvania's defeat by Swarthmore was a terrific blow to the hopes of its supporters, who figured that the big Philadelphia crowd would be back Showalter, Minneapolis, Minn.; centre, Anderson, Somerville, Mass.; right guard, Frank Green, Boston; right tackle, Dan O'Connor, Boston; right end, Larry Greene, Haverhill, Mass.; quarterback, Maloney, Boston; left halfback, Gilfoy, Haverhill, Mass.; right halfback, Wall, Woburn, Mass.; fullback, Leighty, Connellsville, Pa.

SPEAKS WELL FOR YALE.

Yale came out well by winning 12 to 0 over Lehigh. The team the Elis defeated was a hang-up aggregation and a 12 to 0 triumph speaks well for Yale's future.

Among the other surprises was the Pittsburgh-Navy game. Last year Pitt rolled up something like forty-seven points against the Middies. The score Saturday was: Pitt, 20; Navy, 19—a narrow squeak win for the Smoky City boys.

It was believed that Pittsburgh had a better team than last year, but after its showing against the Navy means one of two things:

(1) Its team is not stronger, or (2) Navy of 1916 is about 100 per cent. better than Navy of 1915.

Cornell got into the spotlight saturday and showed some good football. It scored strong in every department. All of which is not gladdening to the Harvard, which meets Cornell on October 28.

OHIO STARTLES COX.

Ohio State, the junior member of the Western Conference, startled its coming from when it rolled up a 128 to 0 victory over Oberlin. That's about the worst beating any team has given a college in many years.

Syracuse continues to run amuck. It has a great backfield and a tremendously powerful line. Begins to look as if the only way the Orange crew can be beaten is to use a machine gun. Human battering hasn't affected the 200-pound line.

Harvard won, but not impressively. Wouldn't be surprising if the Crimson was whaled over the football fields of 1916.

'Big Bill' Edwards Out With Defi

New York, Oct. 16.—"Big Bill" Edwards, national secretary of the Willson College Men's League, a former Princeton gridiron star, has challenged the Hughes College Men's League to a game of football. In both rival organizations are men who starred on the gridiron.

"Big Bill's" lineup is as follows: Bill Roper, Princeton, left end; "Blondy" Wallace, Pennsylvania, left tackle; Elmer Thompson, Cornell, left guard; Walter Booth, Princeton, centre; "Big Bill" himself, right guard; Tom Thorne, Columbia, right tackle; "Shy" Thompson, Princeton, right end; Carl Williams, Pennsylvania, quarterback; Dave Fultz, Brown, left halfback; Eddie Dillon, Princeton, right halfback, and Eddie Mahan, Harvard, fullback.

Tufts Heroes Are Home 5 Hurt in Tiger Game

Tufts' plucky football team, not in the least disheartened by its defeat at the hands of the Princeton Tigers, in Princeton, Saturday, returned home in a badly battered condition.

Drummey has a twisted leg that is bothering him badly. The two ends, Jochim and Sanborn, are suffering from strained backs, with the former awaiting an X-ray report to find just how serious his injury is. Morrison and Beachan also experienced minor injuries.

Tufts realizes that it bit off too big a bite when it attempted to defeat Harvard and Princeton inside of a week. However, its goal line was not crossed by either famed elevens and there is great credit coming to the Medfordites.

Their exhibition of holding when its line was threatened Saturday was truly remarkable. In midfield the Tiger backs seemed able to gain at will, but in the shadow of the goal posts they were powerless.

LOSS OF ENDS HURT.

The loss of both first string ends early in the first quarter can be blamed for much of the poor playing on Tufts' part. Nearly all of Tufts' offical forward passes depend on the ability of the ends to get down before the ball, and, with Sanborn and Jochim out, a forward pass was always uncertain of completion.

The lack of good ends was particularly noticeable whenever Doane got off one of his long spirals. Brown, the speedy left tackle, was invariably the first man down under the ball, and always found two Princeton men waiting for him.

Often Drummey, playing eighth man on the line, was down under the ball before his ends. With this glaring lack of covering of punts, it is no wonder the Tiger backs could run kicks back thirty-five yards.

DRUMMEY NOT TO BLAME.

Drummey was criticised for not using "Dinger" Doane, the big buck who was so successful against the Crimson line, more than he did, but the little general can easily justify his apparent short-sightedness. It all centreds on a point in Princeton's defense that if not illegal, is bad, to it that there is a question.

Just as Pryor, Tufts' centre, passed the ball, a Princeton player would dive head first over the Tufts' line and land in a heap on Drummey as he was stooping to get the ball. Time after time the Medford men protested the play, that was clearly off side, but to no avail.

Head Linesman Hallohan of B. A. A. could not, or would not see it. As Tufts' success in rushing the ball depends mainly on the delayed pass it is clearly evident this style of play was impossible with an opposing player behind the line. The man never came through the line, always over it.

TRIED A SINGLE RUSH.

Finding his main line of attack thus blocked, Drummey was forced to use end runs and forward passes. It will be noticed that in the entire quarter Tufts tried to rush the ball only once, every other attempt to gain being a forward pass.

Abbott, Princeton's substitute left half back, covered himself with glory by his famous kick from his own 25 yard line.

This same player, only a few minutes before had missed an easy goal from a perfect position on the fourteen-yard line. It is no reflection on Tufts' ability that it was beaten by such a kick.

Doane's work in punting, although unquestionably poorer than Eddy's, would not have looked so bad if his ends had been at all equal to the task of covering them.

AMATEUR BOXING SHOW.

St. Joseph's T. A. S. puts on an amateur boxing tournament at No. 7 Green street, West End, next Monday night. There will be bouts at 105, 125 and 145-pound classes, as well as two specials. Entries close today with George V. Brown, Boston A. A.

TABERSKI IN TITLE GAMES

New York, Oct. 16.—On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, will defend his title of pocket-billiard champion in a 450-ball match against Ralph Greenleaf of Chicago.

Three Firsts for U. S. Athletes

Stockholm, Oct. 14, via London, Oct. 16.—Competing against athletes of the Scandinavian countries the Americans captured three races—the 100 and 400-metre runs and the 800-metre relay race.

In the 400-metre run Ted Meredith, former quarter-mile American national champion, defeated J. Bolin, holder of the 800-metre Swedish record. Meredith's time was 49 7-10 seconds.

Americans took first, second and third places in the 100-metre event, the winner being Joe Loomis of Chicago.

The high jump was won by the Swede, Kullerstrand, Loomis being second and Fred Murray of Chicago third. The summary:

100-metre dash (100 yards, 13 inches)—Won by Joe C. Loomis of Chicago; second, Andy E. Ward of Chicago; third, Bob Simpson. Time —10 3-10 seconds.

400-metre run (457 yards, 16 inches)—Won by Ted Meredith of Philadelphia; second, J. Bolin of Sweden. Time—49 7-10 seconds.

800-metre relay race—American team (Joe Loomis, Fred Murray, Bob Simpson, Andy Ward) defeated the Scandinavian team. Time —1 minute, 30 2-5 seconds.

High jump—Won by Kullerstrand of Sweden, with a jump of 183 centimetres (6 feet); second, Loomis, 180 centimetres; third, Fred Murray, 175 centimetres.

Callahan Back in Yale Rushline

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 16.—John Callahan, who began the season as the probable selection as Yale's centre rush in the final games, returned to the team today after a month's absence caused by an injury to his shoulder. If he fulfils the promise given during the first week of practice he will retain the position.

Charley Taft, son of ex-President Taft, who was tried at centre in the game against Lehigh Saturday, will return to tackle, where he has had much more experience.

The coaches may switch Rex Hutchins, former fullback, to his old position at tackle. Only a single 'Varsity player, Quarterback Smith, was injured in the Lehigh game.

It is doubtful if Lehigh will be an opponent of Yale another season. It played an unusually tough game and will probably be dropped by the Elis.

AMATEUR BOUTS TONIGHT

The Riverside Boat Club puts on the first amateur boxing show of the season at Cypress Hall, Cambridge, tonight. There will be competition in the 108, 115, 125 and 135-pound classes.

JABS AND JOLTS.

CHARLEY DESHLER has matched Welterweight Willie Ryan, his new boat bet, with Jack Britton for a bout at Providence on Thursday night. Ryan originally booked as Battling Leonard of Brunswick, Me., is now making Cambridge his home. He is working out with Harry Pinkham. New England welterweight champion, and is reported a real find. Ryan has been a boy of 147 pounds in this section of late time.

TOMMY GOODMAN writes from New York stating that he is anxious to get the winner of the Leonard-Tendler battle at the Arena October 31, for Young Palmer. For Billy Sue's edification, Tommy states the 126 pounder is a 9 p. m., with a $250 forfeit going up, same to go as a side bet. For Shubert, Goodman would prefer a match nearer the bantamweight limit.

TIM O'NEIL of Chicago has been substituted for Ben (Porky) Flynn of Boston against Jack Dillon at the Broadway Sporting Club, Brooklyn, tomorrow night.

JOE EAGAN, the Dorchester welterweight, meets "Chick" West of Holyoke at Pittsfield tonight.

DAVE POWERS boxes Young O'Neill and Billy Meyers goes on with Young Hedrs at Woonsocket tonight.

TAR BABY KEPT OUT OF RANGE

Buenos Ayres Promoter with Gun Hunts for "Tham" After a "Bloomer" Fight with McVey

By ED CURLEY.

New York, Oct. 16.—When "Tham" Langford, the "cullud" demon, spars around these diggings again, don't be surprised if his hue is slightly paler than when he left these shores for Buenos Ayres.

Down in that southern part of the world "Tham" just borrowed an experience that might have proved fatal to the ebony gent'leman. Luckily for "Tham" he managed to avert the unpleasantness and therefore is once again back with us.

It seems that "Tham" and his old pal, Sam McVey, engaged in a twenty-round pastime for the benefit of our brothers close to the equator. And it was one of THOSE THINGS. We have been the team perform around here and know just what happened.

Down in Buenos Ayres they look at matters through different glasses. All through the awful affair the natives just sat there and swore volubly in Spanish. After the affair it dawned upon the patrons they were bunked.

Don Marvin Revelle Del Saar, who brought about the invasion of battlers, saw his dream of gold go shivering. The more he thought about it the wilder he grew, and it ended up in the Don packing a canister and announcing he was going out to make a sieve of little "Tham." Fortunately for the culled demon, the Don couldn't get within shooting range.

A day or so later Willie Gould, the boxing instructor of the Buenos Ayres club, paid "Tham" a visit principally for the reason he heard that "Tham" made some rather threatening remarks.

Gould invaded the quarters of Langford and to show his fear of the battler slapped him on the back and started to say a few unkind words about the performance. Once again "Tham" was lucky, for Willie was all primed up, as he knew he was no match for Langford when it came down to flat fighting. Nothing happened on the visit, much to the chagrin of the American boxers who were present.

In talking about the trip to South America every traveler dwells on the Langford-McVey exhibition ruined whatever prospects boxing had of being patronized.

Jack Britton on Ground Out to Open Campaign

By RINGSIDE.

The next three attractions at the Arena are old numbers on the pugilistic schedule. Yes, Bo, the fans are set to witness three battles in a row that are "chestnuts," to revive an old slang expression, to wit:

Tomorrow night—Jack Britton vs. Ted (Kid) Lewis.
October 24—Jack Dillon vs. Battling Levinsky.
October 31—Al Shubert vs. Young Britt.

Britton and Lewis get underway for the Winter with their big show tomorrow night. It had five renditions during the 1915-1916 campaign. The first two performances were staged here in Boston. In the maiden one Britton appeared to have shaded Lewis, but the gent in charge of the fracas rendered a draw verdict. In their return number, the Londoner won by considerable of a margin.

Then, Britton and Lewis, accompanied by Managers Morgan and Johnston, hit the road. At Buffalo, Jack scored out Ted Kid in ten rounds. Traversing the same distance in that dear Brooklyn, Britton jabbed his way to a decisive victory. Next followed the piece de resistance of the medley.

TITLE SWITCHED IN SOUTH.

The two winsome welters battled down in New Orleans, over the twenty-round route, for the world's championship. "Twas a pippin' of a scrap, they do say, with Britton again doing the superior boxing, and, when the referee raised his right mit heavenward in token of victory, the crown was the Yankee's.

In fairness to Britton and Lewis, it can be said that never has even the tiniest bit of scandal busted out following any of their battles. The entire series is generally credited with having been up-and-up. What's more, every one of them pleased and starred anew for another season the chances are Jack and Ted will again satisfy their audience.

So far as can be found out, it's to be a catchweight affair. However, both battlers must be at weight, for doped on past Boston appearances the 145-pound notch is easily made by both.

BRITTON HERE WITH PILOT.

Danny Morgan arrived in town last night with Britton. It is the latter's claim that Jack Dillon will just about put Ted completely out of business this time. When Jimmie Johnston arrives with the bouncing Britlaker we will doubtless hear counter claims.

Levinsky and Dillon have been here a week or two hence. This, too, is a venerable number, way, way older than the Britton-Lewis skit. Come Dillon generally used to beat Levinsky, but in their last start, at Baltimore, the Battler was credited with having gone over a winner.

However, so many things happened to crab this bout that what really transpired has been allowed to run for old Pop Sweeny by the fighting set.

Dillon and Levinsky are well matched as to weight; unquestionably the best two fighting machines of their poundage in the Queensberry world and with all going well their battle should be jammed full of action.

Oct. 31. Shubert and Young Britt are to get it again. It is understood that the two New Bedford boys are to make the same weight they made when on at the Arena a few weeks ago—120 pounds at 9 a. m.

Bouts Tonight.

A MOTORMAN TELLS WONDERFUL STORY

Dennis Doherty, of 756 Parker St., Roxbury, Says Plant Juice Helped Him.

When the stomach performs its functions so perfectly that the possessor forgets that he has any good health, physical powers and buoyant spirits prevail, the stomach in civilized people of today is degenerate.

DENNIS DOHERTY.

It lacks tone and strength, gradually brought about through a sedentary existence. Too much food and little exercise have forced the stomach into a half-dead condition. It becomes weak and does not protect itself, and the bars are down for the entrance of disease in many forms. Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, is a purifying and a vitalizing agent. It corrects local disorders of the stomach, which is being demonstrated daily and verified by well-known local people in signed statements.

For instance, Mr. Dennis Doherty, who lives at No. 758 Parker street, Roxbury, is employed by the Boston Street Railway Company as motorman, stated:

"For years I have been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia and constipation was also with me, in addition that I could not eat any meat or vegetables, in fact, could scarcely keep any solid food on it, as it would ferment and cause gas, and I was in constant misery. I had headaches, dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart, and was so nervous I could not sleep. Finally I became so worn out that I had to give up work. I had tried all kinds of medicine without relief, when I saw in the home papers how many ralieved of them had been helped by your medicine, Plant Juice, and I started to take it. I got my first dose I felt relief, and since I have continued to take it I feel like a new man. It has relieved my stomach; can eat any kind of food, sleep well and am glad to say that Plant Juice has entirely relieved me of all my troubles."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton store, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Advertisement.

Honk-Honk! Sox Start Getaway on Auto Tour

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

At 9 o'clock today the Red Sox tourists, who are to spend a week or so in New Hampshire rusticating, left in automobiles from the Copley Square Hotel. Jack Barry led the party, which includes a great many of those who gained fame as active participants in the big clash.

Others have started over the road for their homes in various parts of the country and today Boston is almost deserted of baseball luminaries. Of the Braves, J. Carlisle Smith, commonly called "Red," is about the only member of the club in town. "Red" contemplates spending the Winter here with Mrs. Smith and their two children.

It is to be presumed that quite frequently now the deponents will blossom forth with this yarn and that yarn, all having to do with the selection of a manager for the Red Sox. Though President Lannin told the players last Friday morning he thought Bill would be with them again next Spring, it's a known fact he only thinks it.

Persons intimate with the Red Sox boss are quite sure J. Lannin feels quite confident he won't have the services of his peerless manager next year. However, it's a certainty that Mr. Lannin does not intend to hurry about the task of selecting a man to fill Bill's shoes. As he well knows they are some shoes to fill and before he makes his final decision he will give the matter much thought.

WON'T KNOW TILL SPRING.

Today the AMERICAN feels most secure in stating that a new manager will not be named until about a week or so before the club goes to Hot Springs, Ark., for its annual preparatory season. Meanwhile Mr. Lannin will consult with baseball advisers and the day the new manager takes up the reins he will find most everything in shape. All that will have to do is go about the job of landing an American League pennant.

While, of course, it is a trifle early to figure on results next season it is nevertheless permissible for one to say that any man who takes Carrigan's job has something to do in order to land in front. There are two or three other clubs in the race, which, if everything is equal, will make the Boston team hustle to land in front.

To locate one of them it is not necessary to go out of the East, for the Yankees are an aggregation that merits consideration. Unfortunate accidents ruined the chances of Joe Jakeli Ruserthasters last season. With any sort of luck "Wild Bill" Donovan should have a good year in 1917. Captain Huston is already in the field with a shiny new Cadillac limousine. With a few breaks Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis will fare better next year.

IN FOR A HOUSE-CLEANING.

In the National League the situation is more confusing than ever. Recent criticisms will undoubtedly stir up some of the owners and result in some great changes. It is possibly a little more class to the organization as a whole. The claims at the present time appear to have the leg on all other teams. However, by July 1 next it may be entirely different.

McGraw's pack that ran through twenty-six consecutive victories may not be so easy to handle as one imagines. It may be that they will become even more radical than of yore. Anyone knows that handling Herzog, Zimmerman, Fletcher and Kauff is a full sized job for any man. "Mac's" recent remarks in Brooklyn will not, of course, promote harmony in the ranks.

It doesn't look as though Brooklyn, under present conditions, will figure to any great extent. The heart should be out of that club as a result of recent happenings. Philadelphia should be in the hunt, and, if Joe Tinker is able to make his band work together, he should figure. Matty's task in Cincinnati is by no means any easy one.

Mays Believes in Advertising

Wearing his new, flaming Red Sox sweater, and carrying the sign, with the letters printed in huge letters, "From Boston, Mass., to Portland, Ore.," Carl Mays, the World's Champion noted underhand flinger and Bill Carrigan's only losing hurler in the series with the Dodgers, started for his home in the Northwest in his new touring car late Saturday.

It's a ride of some 4,000 miles by road. Before being seen off by his friends, Mays said he was in no hurry to reach his home city. "If I get there by Thanksgiving Day, I'll be satisfied, and I'm sure that if I hustle I'll make it inside of two weeks," was Carl's parting shot.

Mays plans doing some pitching en route West.

CARRIGAN IS TAKING IT EASY

Back at Lewiston Home Feeding Chickens and Harvesting Apples—Wagner with Him.

Lewiston, Me., Oct. 16.—Just tell them I'm going to put in my time feeding the chickens, harvesting the apples and getting my place ready for Winter and resting up from the hard work of the past baseball season," said W. F. ("Bill") Carrigan, manager of the world's champion Red Sox, in answer to the AMERICAN correspondent's question as to his plans for the next few weeks.

"And you might say," he added, "that the chap who announced I was going into politics has Jules Verne beat a million years on imagination. Nothing to it. The only thing I am a candidate for is a good, long rest."

At the time Carrigan and Heinie Wagner, who accompanied him home, were taking life easy at Bill's home on upper Main street, where they arrived late Saturday night, having come through from Boston by automobile. They were reading the Monday papers, but not talking baseball.

Carrigan plans, weather being favorable, to leave the last of the week with his wife and Wagner for a motor trip to the eastern part of Maine, after which they will go to his camp on the shores of Annebessacook Lake for a long stay, as has been the custom of late years.

It is doubted if there will be any public reception to Carrigan. His many admirers here are anxious to see him this honor, but it is being discouraged by his friends. The understanding is that he does not want it. But Bill prefers nothing of the kind shall be done.

This has been one of the most prosperous seasons in the history of baseball. It is estimated that some of the magnates made enough to purchase a ton of coal.

Looking over the various systems used by baseball experts to dope out the result of the world series, we have reached the conclusion that the following is the most reliable:

Place the names of the contending teams in a hat. A derby hat is preferred. Shake the hat vigorously for ten minutes. Shut the eyes, insert the right hand in the hat and pick out one of the names. If you are a southpaw use the left hand.

The team you pick in this fashion will win the World Series if it is lucky enough.

RED SOX MAY BE IN BAD

Disobey Order of National Commission and Play Ty Cobb's Team Sunday Game.

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 16—Despite the fact that it was semi-officially stated before the World's Champion Red Sox took the field against the Colonials, with Ty Cobb performing on first for the local semi-pros, that the National Commission had forbidden the game, the teams went through with their performances. It ended in a 3-3 tie.

A crowd of almost 5,000 was on hand at Lighthouse Point, where the game was played. Cobb is reported to have received $250, while each of the Red Sox, as well as Jack Barry, who served as manager, pocketed between $90 and $100. The World's Champions filled the date on a percentage.

Cobb, in addition to finding "Babe" Ruth for two hits and scoring a run, had eight assists. Six were thrown to Pitcher Ray Keating, the former Yankee, who covered first, Hoblitzel standing in this manner three times.

With the two teams tied in the ninth, Duffy Lewis saved the day for the Red Sox by making a wonderful running catch of Stow's long liner, which, down an apparent home run. The fans wanted the two clubs to keep going, they quit the field at the expiration of the ninth. The score:

Big College Run Set for Nov. 25

The annual cross-country run of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, in which the pick of the college long distance men will appear, will be run in New Haven on the morning of November 25.

The event will be staged in connection with the annual football game between Harvard and Yale, which will be played this year in the Yale bowl. The course of the big run will be decided upon at a future meeting.

On the evening of the same day a special meeting of the entire association will be held to discuss plans relative to the proper care of the athletes at the meet. Several recommendations advocated at the meeting will also come up for discussion at that meeting.

NEW YORK RING TALK

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Jack Dillon, the lanky light heavyweight, seeing his opponents in seven days, will oppose Tim Hurley, a newcomer from Cleveland, Ohio, at the Broadway Sporting Club's Boxing show, on Friday night. Dillon has met only little known boxers since Tom Gibbons and has established a reputation of being a hard hitting victory over Tom Gibbons and was so credited with two wins from Battling Kopp.

JIMMY FARRELL and Eddie Brady will meet in a return match tonight at the Olympic A. C. The winner will be matched with Frankie Daly.

MURRAY PERKLE and Tommy Geary, lightweights, will meet in the semi-windup of ten rounds. Buck Hanniford, Yonkers heavyweight, will oppose Jack Gilchrist. The winner will be Jim Healy's next opponent.

AT THE Empire Club, Thursday night, Jimmy Gatto, the Portchester welterweight, will meet Mickey Cross, in the six-round main event. Other bouts will be between Jack Sharkey and Young Kid. On Friday night Stanton O'Brien, the Yonkers lightweight, will oppose Eddie Dorsey at the Harlem Club.

John Galsworthy

The work of John Galsworthy will endure as the finest literature known to our day. His books and plays are accepted models for style and diction. A Galsworthy novel is of itself a course in English. He is a master of word values and construction, possessed of a simplicity only less amazing than its vitality.

Galsworthy uses words like a painter. Under the spell of his art they are colors, shades and tints of infinite clarity brushed upon the page with bold, vivid strokes—alive.

But Galsworthy's genius rests even more with his knowledge of life, his acquaintance with the forces which dominate and desolate society. In fertility of plot and control of situations he has no recent peer. His impulse is clean, dauntless, upbuilding.

Cosmopolitan

pursuant with a policy of presenting only the best fiction and philosophy to its readers now, in addition to such masters as Booth Tarkington, Robert Chambers, Gouverneur Morris, Maurice Maeterlinck, Samuel Merwin, Arthur Train and Jack London, is privileged to announce the exclusive American publication of John Galsworthy's novels—the first of which appears in the current issue.

A Girl and a Man

Bainbridge Takes a Seemingly Fatherly Interest in Agnes and Tries to Smooth Her Path

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XLIII.

Copyright, 1916, by the Company.

"Have you a good physician?" Bainbridge queried.

His manner was that of an elder brother, almost that of a solicitous parent.

"Yes," Agnes told him, "an excellent physician."

"And you said just now that you are not alone. Who is here with you? Your mother?"

"No," she replied, "we have no regular maidservant, a young girl who comes each day to do the work. She never had her until I went to work. Then I could not leave my aunt alone."

She told him this hurriedly. If he had come to see her, he must appreciate that she realized it was only a kind employer to a humble employee. Yet Wallbing Hale would not have come, she reflected—no, not if she had been dying.

"Then who is here with you now?" he persisted.

"My aunt has a trained nurse with her at present," Agnes said.

"How long will she stay?"

"I don't know—as long as the doctor thinks best—perhaps for a number of weeks."

She strove to make her tone calm and indifferent. She did not want him to pity her. Again her pride came to her assistance, and yet she could not help the little shiver of fear that crept over her as she thought of the future and of the tremendous expenses she was incurring—she whose income was only fifteen dollars a week.

"Have you the money to pay her?"

The question was blunt, yet it did not sound rude. She hesitated, and Bainbridge leaned forward and laid a huge hand on her fingers as they gripped one another in her lap.

"Dear child," he said, "forgive my seeming impertinence; but I am your friend, dear—and I do want to help you."

"You can't help me!" she exclaimed, shaking off his hand and rising to her feet. "Nobody can help me!"

He rose, too, and stood by her side, looking down at her in the dim light. He did not try to take her hand again, but his manner was very gentle.

A TENDER INTEREST

"I wish you would not resent my interference," he pleaded. "I know I have done nothing to deserve your trust, that you are on your guard against me—as you might me against the most unprincipled man in the world. But I am not wholly bad, my dear; and I came here tonight as I might to a man friend to whom I hoped I might be of service. I am sorry you do not consider me worthy of your confidence."

The blood rushed to her face and pounded in her ears. How ungrateful and ungracious she had seemed. Moreover, what was she going to do? She had been wishing that there were some one to whom she could go for counsel, some one whose advice she could seek, yet when this man came to her she repulsed him.

She turned to him as suddenly that he was astonished. She spoke like a penitent.

"I have been behaving like a fool," she said, "and I beg your pardon. There is something you can do to help me, and that is to give me your advice."

"I will be glad to," he assured her.

She waited to collect her thoughts, then told him all the truth—of how little she had, of how much devotion and fealty she owed her aunt. The man, leaning back in a deep chair, kept his eyes fixed upon her. She felt felt somewhat as if he was hypnotizing her to keep no facts from him.

"And now," she said, as she finished, "I want your advice. Is there any way in which I could borrow some money—I mean could I have my life insured and borrow money on the policy—I mean—isn't there something of that sort I could do?"

HIS KIND OFFER

He shook his head. "Nothing just like that," he replied. "But—there is something you can do."

"What?" The look in his eyes made her feel slightly giddy.

"Take it from me," he said slowly. "I am a rich man, child. I can let you have all the money you need."

"Oh, no!" she exclaimed, shrinking back. "I cannot borrow from you! I have no security to offer you. I cannot do that!"

He leaned quickly forward as if to seize her hand, then restrained himself. The action had been so swift that she had not noticed it.

"You would not accept it as a gift?" he murmured, looking at her keenly.

"No, no!" she said again. "And I cannot borrow it from you! Please forget that I suggested getting anyone to lend me money."

"Then," he said, "if you will not borrow it, you can earn it from me."

She gazed at him wide-eyed.

"I have some work I would like done out of business hours," he explained, "some important papers to be copied. I have been trying to think of some one whom I could trust to do them. Will you come to my home and copy them in my library in the evenings? I will pay you well—that is, just what the job is worth."

"Yes" she heard herself saying. "I will do that."

"Very well, then," he remarked, rising as if the matter was settled. "That is cash basis. But you need money now. I will pay you $50 in advance."

She gasped her astonishment. "Oh, no!" she began, "I might never earn as much as that. Please, Mr. Bainbridge—"

Before she could reach his side he was gone, and she was getting down at the roll of bills he had left on the table before her.

To Be Continued.

Approved Recipes

The following recipes have been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute, conducted by GOOD HOUSEKEEPING, and are republished here by special arrangement with that publication, the Nation's Greatest Home Magazine.

All measurements are level, standard half-pint measuring cups, tablespoons, and teaspoons being used. Sixteen level teaspoonfuls equal one half-cup. Quantities are sufficient for six people unless otherwise stated. Flour is sifted once before measuring.

Raised Cornmeal Muffins

One-half cupful yellow Indian meal, 1 pint boiling water, 2 tablespoonfuls lard, ½ cupful molasses, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1 compressed yeast cake, about 6 cupfuls bread flour.

Pour the boiling water over the meal, add lard, molasses and salt, mix thoroughly and let stand till lukewarm. Add the yeast cake, dissolved in 2 tablespoonfuls of warm water, and flour to form to make a stiff batter, about 6 cupfuls. Let rise till light, but to deep muffin tins, let rise again, and bake about twenty minutes in a rather quick oven. This mixture is enough to fill about sixteen muffin tins.

English Chutney Sauce

One-half pound ripe tomatoes, 1 pound tart apples, 2 cupfuls granulated sugar, 3 large green peppers, 12 small onions, 1 cupful raisins, 1 cupful mint leaves, 1½ cupfuls seeded raisins, 2 cupfuls vinegar, 3 tablespoonfuls dry mustard, 1 teaspoonful salt.

Chop tomatoes and salt and mix. Chop together the apples, onions and raisins and add the mint leaves and cook with vinegar, add sugar and mustard, mix all the ingredients together, and allow them to stand all night. Then bring to boiling, stirring them frequently. This will keep indefinitely.

"Stickies"

Baking powder biscuit dough, nutmeg, butter, sugar, either brown or white.

Spread the biscuit dough thinly with the butter, butter in a cream, sprinkle thickly with sugar, and grate nutmeg lightly over the whole. Roll up, cut with a sharp knife, place cut side down in a baking tin, and bake in a quick oven. For the biscuit dough made of two cupfuls of flour, 1 tablespoonful of butter and 3-2 cupful of sugar will be needed. These are delicious with afternoon tea.

Had a Reason

"It seems to me," one of the girls most revered by the Nornans, "that figure of a woman, seated, resting her chin in her hand," said Mrs. Chatterly, reading from the newspaper.

"Which proves that the Nornans are about the worst section on earth," remarked Mrs. Norman.

"How's that, Jemima?"

"Why!" said Mrs. Chatterly, with distinct emphasis, "simply because they make a deity of a woman who has sense enough to give her chin a rest."

NO RELIEF FROM INTENSE ITCHING

Tells of "Wonderful Cure" by Resinol

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26.—I had eczema in the worst way for six months. A small pimple on my right wrist kept spreading and soon had so my arm was all in scales. The burning was so bad it felt as if I had been holding it in the fire. I could not rub it off. I tried everything I could hear about, including many prescriptions, but got no relief. As a last resort I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap three days had relieved the itching entirely, and after using two more cakes of Soap and Ointment I was a well woman. I only wish I knew me when I had this trouble so surprised at the wonderful cure." (Signed) Miss A. S. Walker, Bartlett St., Charlestown.

SIGHED a bachelor girl, "If I could but take only Love himself along on my honeymoon, then sure I'd marry. For it's Love himself alone who has my heart, whose company I would adore. The glint of his golden curls is in my eyes, not the sun of any real man's face. If I could but take Love alone along and leave the man at home, I'd marry."—NELL BRINKLEY.

FEAR is a grim and terrible thing. I know—I have been afraid! Fear twists your heart with a pain as relentless as the Summer sun shining down on the desert of midday, as sudden as the storm clouds that may blot out the sunlight, and as cold as the rain that the northeast wind sweeps in from the ocean. Fear is abject—it has none of the consolation and shadowed half lights of other pains. It gives out naked and ugly. You are afraid—ashamed that you are afraid—and helpless in the face of your shame.

Think of the spiteful brave men who shudder when you talk of death. That does not mean they would not fight in the thick of battle or face epidemic bodily fear for it as what their terror-stricken when you say "death." Loneliness, darkness, shame—each has its victims. Each one knows its own fear—but it gripped me once. This is the story:

"I have come in to help you with your mail," said Jimmy one morning in June. Then he perched upon my desk—to the deference of my work, rather than its assistance.

Still, in spite of my uninvited guest, I managed to give my attention to the mail, weeding out the chaff of those who want to know whether a gentleman shall walk on the outside or between two ladies, from the wheat of life's tragic crop of real problems.

The Wife of a Convict

Presently I came to a letter which deeply impressed me. It read:

"Dear Miss Fairfax: I have just learned that my husband is a convict. I still love him. What shall I do? Yours in despair,
Gladys Hanson.
"Vervenca road and Elm street, Bronx."

"Here is a letter that ought to shame you out of your quizzical attitude," said I, handing it to J. B.—but that shameless one handed it back with a laugh.

"That's easy. Tell her to call a cop," said he.

So I gave him a fairfax lecture! And as Jimmy took it very amiably, I relented at the end and issued an invitation.

"I'm going to see her now. Do you want to come with me and see that the man gets fair play? Some of my correspondents say I'm a little harder on your sex than mine—as if somebody in authority ought not try to give women just a little squarer deal than men get on a charge."

"Votes for women!" shouted Jimmy. "I'm with you—we're off for the Bronx!"

But we weren't, for just then in walked Howard Barnes, Clip Editor, with an assignment for Jimmy. So I started out alone. It should have made all the difference in the world if City Editor Barnes had not just that morning become interested in a certain banker's views on the Wall Street situation. However, alone I went and more or less alone I faced—my fear.

Where City and Country Meet

The subway and I parted company at One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street, and then the elevated carried me on into the most distant regions of the Bronx. When I left the station which I had discovered was nearest to Vervenca road, I found myself in a strange part of the world. A dusty road, with pebbled walks on either side of it, wandered along ahead of me with an air of indifference as to whether or no I followed it.

Equally uninviting were the houses all about. Commuters had built up tiny cottages with a hopefulness which showed in the neatly stringled roots and died out in the untended gardens and unsown grass plots. "Here and there a dilapidated old farmhouse straggled up as if protesting against the efforts of the city to travel out into the country's seclusion. I seemed doomed to wander on indefinitely without coming to signpost or crossroad.

At last two men came into the almost primeval solitude I was traveling. I asked one of them if he could tell me where Mrs. Hanson lived. He was an unusual looking man to be in the company of the brutal, sullen-faced creature at his side. The most notable characteristic of the man to whom I had spoken was strength. His was an appearance of dauntlessness and indomitable determination, mingled with the clean-cut, sinewy appearance of a man who keeps in good athletic training.

"The Hanson house is just down yonder," said he. "But what do you want Mrs. Hanson?"

I fancied the man watched me with actual misgivings when I turned into the roadway leading to the Hanson cottage. I wondered what difference it could make to them, but dismissed that matter a few moments later when a girl who was charmingly pretty in spite of red eyes and pallor opened the door.

An Escaped Convict

Of course this was Mrs. Hanson, and her relief and joy at seeing me were so great that at least five minutes were wasted before I could get her to start telling her story.

Those five minutes we paid for very dearly later on.

"We've only been married two months," sobbed the girl at last, and though George is devotion itself when he remembers me—he seems to forget me most of the time. When I ask him what he's thinking about he always says it's business—but he never tells me what that business is."

"Oh, Miss Fairfax, I just can't bear it. Yesterday he sent me out of the room when a dreadful looking man named Doyle came to see him. I was suspicious. I peeped over the banisters and listened to what they were saying.

"I love George. I adore him, but I can't face what's threatening now. This is what I heard him tell Doyle: 'You needn't fear me. I did two years in Atlanta prison and escaped.'"

• • •

"Oh, Miss Fairfax, what would you do if you found that the man you loved—the man you had married—was an escaped convict?"

(To Be Continued Tomorrow)

When the Worm Turns

The case, as a matter of fact, was of quite a trivial nature; but, for all that, the lawyer, who happened to be a young man, and ambitious, determined to get at any rate some kudos out of it for himself.

So when a diminutive, ragged little urchin took his stand in the witness box, he decided to make the most of an opportunity and establish a reputation for brilliance at that small boy's expense.

"You say you are fifteen years old?" he scornfully inquired. "Have you got an occupation of any sort?"

"No," replied the lad, with lazy indifference.

"You just loaf about—stand at street corners, and so forth?"

"That's about it, mister."

"Hum! And what does your father do?"

"The old man? Oh, 'e don't do much." And the boy smiled as he drawled out the words.

"You mean," said the lawyer, "that your father is like you—a lazy, worthless, good-for-nothing loafer; one of those men who"——

"Maybe 'e is—maybe 'e ain't," interrupted the witness. "Anyway, you can ask 'im yourself. 'E's sittin' there on the jury!"

To Make Your Hair Look Naturally Curly

After shaking the hair down and brushing it out, apply a little liquid almerine with a clean tooth brush and then rub the hair in earlier. This produces as beautiful curls and waves as you could wish for, all in a natural appearance, and they will last a long time. The full effect is secured within three hours, though some prefer to keep the hair done up over night.

Two ounces of liquid almerine—which can of course be had at any drug store—will last for weeks, so it is quite economical to use. It can also be used for dressing, giving the hair an delightful gloss. When the hair is combed out it will be as fluffy as though it had just been shampooed.—Advertisement.

On Giving and Taking

Many Girls Take Unwisely Without a Thought for the Future of Others

By ANN LISLE

What girl wants to confess that an ugly title like grafter applies to her? And yet far too many girls are just what that word implies.

They accept things to which they have no right from people who have no right to give them gifts. As their just and due prerquisites girls accept social attentions and gifts from men. Now, most girls know that a self-respecting young woman does not accept gifts and wearing apparel or money from her men friends.

But how many girls realize that a self-respecting girl ought not to permit a boy who is dependent on his parents for support to spend his money on them?

I have received numerous letters from girls and young men asking if it is good taste for them to give or accept presents from the opposite sex—such as jewelry or articles of wearing apparel. I always have advised against this kind of giving.

When you are anxious to show your appreciation of a courtesy or a kindness by a present, let that present be a simple little reminder of nominal money value—perhaps worth a few cents—for, after all, it is the spirit of the gift rather than its value which ought to make it valuable to the receiver.

Now if the receiver attaches value to the gift only from a monetary point of view then you may be sure that that person is not worth cultivating as a friend and much less worth a present of any sort.

The whole matter of expensive presents may be summed up in the single word "Don't."

One of my correspondents has written me a letter on the subject, and I agree with "Samuel S. G." that it is a subject worthy of very serious consideration.

My writer says in part:

"A boy who is a student in high school or college often spends his money freely just to show the girls that he has it. He forgets that his parents may be making sacrifices to educate him—and he forgets that he may need anything he can save in order to start himself in life later.

"I have come across many college graduates who today are struggling hard to make their living as conductors, or even office boys. They are doing this because in their school days they went out and enjoyed themselves with girls who never dreamed that the money being spent on them was needed for a man's progress."

My correspondent is right. Boys have a foolish desire to impress girls by their generosity, and girls have a thoughtless way of accepting as their just due gifts to which they have not a moral right.

A little thought on the subject will convince any one who has fine principles. A girl who honestly likes a boy ought to be satisfied with simple attentions which he can afford, or with mere companionship and friendship, if he cannot afford to spend money for enjoyments and social gayeties.

And this attitude on the part of the girls was due to thoughtlessness. The majority of them if confronted with the real state of the giver's finances would refuse to accept such gifts which could be presented only at too much a cost to the man who gave them.

The question of money and attentions ought not enter into a friendship. Life is a matter of give and take—but not a matter of coldbloodedly giving and taking so much for so much! A girl whose friendship is worth having ought to feel a kindly interest in a boy's future welfare and earnest impulse not to accept gifts and attentions borrowed out of a fund his parents have managed by earnest sacrifice to save up for his start in life. Think it over, girls!

HAVE YOU PUT ON YOUR WINTER ONES?

Some do it when they feel chilly; some when the dreadmate comes around. But doctors here have laid down scientific rules to govern this formal function, and you should read them—in next Sunday's Boston AMERICAN.

In Our Wonderful World

Mahogany hunting is one of the best paying professions. Mahogany trees do not grow in clusters, but are scattered through the forests. The mahogany is one of the largest and tallest of trees, and the hunter, seeking the highest ground, climbs to the top of the tallest tree and surveys the surrounding country. His practiced eye soon detects the mahogany by its peculiar foliage, and he counts the trees within sight, notes the directions and distances, and then, descending, cuts a narrow trail to each tree, which he carefully blazes and marks, especially if there is a rival hunter in the vicinity.

To tell a large mahogany tree is one day's task for two men. On account of the wide spurs which project from the trunk at its base, scaffolds must be erected, and the tree cut off above the spurs. The hunter has nothing to do with the work of cutting or removing the timber. He merely points out the trees, and moves on in search of more. He is paid by results, and it is by no means unusual for a clever hunter to draw $500 for a month's work in the forests.

An English naval chaplain writes that the wireless room is one of the most sacredly secret places in a battleship. "If you come on board you look like—no, I don't mean 'ordinary' people—we will show you the inside of the turrets and take you down into the engine-room, and anywhere else you please; but we shall diplomatically forget to mention the existences of the wireless room. And if you chance you find yourself outside its hallowed portal, we shall point out to you a notice-board hanging thereon, which forbids even the officers of the ship to enter unless required to do so by their duty.

"Without divulging any of its arcana mysteries, I may go so far as to say that it is very different in the general equipment from the wireless room of a dozen years ago. At that period the whole of the apparatus was contained in a couple of small boxes which stood on the desk in an otherwise empty office; the messages were automatically printed in Morse code by a tape machine which always worked slowly, and frequently failed to work at all, being powerless to respond to the more delicate vibrations. At the present time, however, the room is packed full of machinery and complicated instruments."

Russia is almost a roadless land. It is inconceivable to the foreign visitor who has ever left the beaten track of the railways in Russia how a great empire can have subsisted so long and so successfully without even a pretence of roads. The secret lies in the fact that for five or six months in the year Nature herself provides roads over the greater part of Russia—admirable, smooth, shiny roadways over hard-worn snow.

The traffic is further cheapened over these roads by the substitution of a sledge-runner for the wheel and axle. This brings the cost of land carriage as near to the minimum of water-borne freight as possible, and is the principal reason why Russia in the Twentieth Century is still a roadless land.

Hot Water for Sick Headaches

Tells why everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it before breakfast.

Headache of any kind is caused by auto-intoxication—which means self-poisoning. Liver and bowel poisons called toxins, sucked into the blood, through the lymph ducts, excite the heart, which pumps the blood so fast that it congests in the smaller arteries and veins of the head, producing violent, throbbing pain and distress, called headache. You become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish and miserable, your tongue is sour and almost nauseate you. Then you resort to headache, aspirin or the bromides which temporarily relieve, but do not rid the blood of these irritating toxins.

A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, drank before breakfast for awhile, will not only wash these poisons from your system and cure you of headache, but will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary canal.

Ask your pharmacist for a quarter pound of limestone phosphate. It is inexpensive, harmless as sugar, and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

If you are not feeling your best, if tongue is coated or you wake up with bad taste, foul breath, or have colds, indigestion, biliousness, constipation or sour, acid stomach, begin the phosphated hot water cure to rid your system of toxins and poisons.

Results are quick, and it is claimed that those who continue to flush out the stomach, liver and bowels every morning never have any headache or know a miserable moment.—Advertisement.

ASSAIL BRITAIN FOR BAN ON REAL NEWS

Since the British Government barred the Hearst International News Service from using English mails and cables, because the News Service would not allow the British censor to garble and distort the news for its clients, the Boston AMERICAN and the other Hearst papers have been flooded with letters praising the independence of the Hearst papers and the Hearst Service.

An interesting letter from Francis C. Crowninshield was printed in facsimile in the Sunday AMERICAN. Here are some others:

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

It gives me great pleasure to read your Saturday editorial. Your news service is always in the lead; and the other newspapers try to catch up, but they fall by the wayside. There is one thing about your paper; it has what I call the "Spirit of '76" while the others are tory.

Sincerely,
ALEX. J. MEYERS.
Mt. Vernon street, Charlestown.

WANTS REAL NEWS.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

I have just read your able editorial in this evening's paper, and as a reader of the AMERICAN since it started in Boston I wish to congratulate you on the able and truthful way you handle England. It is too bad we have not more papers like the Hearst papers. It is time we had the real news. Your editorial tonight shows up England as she is, a bluff and a coward. More power to you.

N. H.

Editor Boston AMERICAN, "The Paper That Cannot Be Bought."

Allow me to congratulate you on your editorial in Friday's AMERICAN, October 13. It certainly was to the point. The only war news I read is practically the "War Summary" which appears on Page 2 of the AMERICAN.

If I do not get my information there I get it from the other columns of the AMERICAN.

The reason I read the war news of the AMERICAN only is on account of the facts which you have made public before the other papers get hold of them, such as the Asdactons, etc.

Also I never read the ridiculous statements which other papers print, such as one man capturing a trench single handed. AMERICAN first, not England.

Yours truly.
Boston. I. SMITH.

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Your editorial in the Boston AMERICAN on October 13 makes me feel that you are writing the truth and nothing but the truth from the bottom of your heart, and as you write you are showing no partiality to either of the nations which are at war. The editorial on that date is a protest which is a credit to the people of this great nation.

JULIUS BIRNBAUM.
Amesbury, Mass.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Please accept my thanks for your editorial today.

I think you have fired the first gun to destroy the British lions.

ANDREW HOLLER.
No. 587 Union street, Manchester, N. H.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

I have just finished reading your editorial in today's (Friday) paper, and I say, "GOOD." It is a great editorial and worthy of preservation. It rings true in every line.

Long live the Boston AMERICAN!

MUST CALL BEACH AFTER MIDNIGHT

The new telephone exchange "Beach" will go into effect automatically at midnight tonight. However, if you call "Beach" today you will be safe, as the operator will give you the corresponding number on the Oxford exchange. After tomorrow if you call Oxford, you will be corrected, and informed that Beach is the proper exchange. This change, the telephone officials believe, will eliminate much confusion between the calling of Roxbury for Oxford.

LIEUTENANT STOPS HEADQUARTERS FIRE

Quick work on the part of Lieutenant Fyne, clerk to Superintendent Crowley, prevented a serious fire at Police Headquarters shortly before 3 o'clock today. He went down to the basement at that time and found a gunnysack, lying beside the furnace, ablaze. He ran for a fire extinguisher and at the same time pulled in an alarm. When the firemen arrived they found the blaze had been extinguished. The police are unable to explain how the fire occurred.

The new high records were General Motors 7½, Norfolk & Western 147¾, and Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies common 9¾.

That the echo of the U-boat war is diminishing and confidence fast returning was indicated by the strength of the steamship shares. Atlantic, Gulf's advance to a new level, Mercantile Marine, somewhat pronounced strength, the common stock moving up 1 point and the preferred 1¾.

STEEL IS LEADER.

Under the leadership of United States Steel nearly all the important industrials made big gains. Increases in prosperity of railroad stocks was shown by the big demand for these issues, large gains scoring which at noon included Atchison 2¾, Chesapeake & Ohio 2⅜, Norfolk & Western 1⅜, Southern Railway 1¼ and Union Pacific 1⅝.

The feature of the Boston market was the rise in the Utah, Gulf & West Indies with a new high record of 65¾. The market generally was quiet and strong.

MANY OTHER GAINS.

Sugar & Co. sold ex-dividend $25.50 to 12 p.m. Algeria Sugar, after opening a fractional loss, was up ¼ at noon. Other gains included 17 in Mexican Petroleum, 1½ Royale & Midland, 1¾ American Zinc 1¾ and United Fruit ¼.

BOY STATE CONVICT CONFESSES MURDER

Dispatches from San Francisco today told of the arrest in that city that afternoon of a man who was on parole from the Massachusetts State prison at Charlestown and of his confessing to the murder of a child a month ago near Lowell. Police say the man had threatened to kill two men, and he had been under surveillance ever since the murder of little Stephana Coppi in September.

Manley was sentenced to the Charlestown State prison June 23, 1910, on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

TROOPER WEDS GIRL IN BORDER ROMANCE

By International News Service.

Laredo, Tex., Oct. 16.—Fred L. Sparks of Linder, N. J., was one of a trainload of guardsmen who passed through here today on the way to the border camps. The soldiers were halted while they entered the office and registered his name and recipient on pieces of paper, wrapped around small rocks and tossed out of the window. Miss Emma H. Klinger found the hardtack and corresponded with Sparks. She lives in Decatur, now Miss Klinger and today they are married.

$8,000 TORPEDO LOST BY U. S. DESTROYER

New Bedford, Oct. 16.—A northwest gale in Buzzards Bay on Saturday brought hard luck to the torpedo boat Nicholson which lost one of her 18-inch torpedoes valued at $1,000 and her motor-sailing launch broke away and was later found on the rocks of Naushon Island with her stove in its side.

WILSON GAINS SHOWN IN POLL

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 16.—The progress of the National Presidential poll, by postal card, of the registered voters conducted by the Hearst newspapers in co-operation with other leading newspapers of the country is rapidly assuming a shape that indicates that its conclusion will give an accurate forecast of the November vote.

Each day's poll is of the registered voters of the country. Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh of September and the Thirty-second and Thirty-third of October are the Tenth and Eleventh of Broadway.

In 1912 the combined vote for Taft and Roosevelt in these districts exceeded that of Wilson by 7,000.

Of the returns received from the districts named, Wilson leads Hughes by 9.

CONNECTICUT DOUBTFUL.

In a general way early returns from the special poll suggest that Massachusetts will cling to her Republican habit, as often expressed and that her sister state in New England, with the exception of Connecticut, will do the same. The Nutmeg State shows signs of a rather lively fight.

The drift in New York favors Wilson, whether it is of sufficient strength to overcome the Republican majority of the State, future returns alone will show.

Points all signs are wrong. New York will be close, but Wilson will win. The tremendous labor vote in Pennsylvania will not be solid, from all reports, for the Democratic ticket, as has been the case in the past. But even a few pro-republic Democrats admit that the Keystone State will vote for Hughes.

BOTH CLAIM MARYLAND.

Maryland is claimed by both parties. Early postal returns show that Wilson is in the lead.

The most surprising feature of the campaign up to date is the Independent uprising in the State of Ohio. That State, because of its varied industries, is a hard one to forecast. Ohio has been classed as a high tariff citadel and only once since the Civil War, with the exception of the abnormal election four years ago, has it cast an electoral vote for a Democrat. That was in 1892, when Cleveland received one of its twenty-three electoral votes.

Not only have the centres of industry in Ohio shown a strong leaning towards the Democratic party, but the city of Cincinnati, with its enormous German population and with a normal Republican majority of 15,000 to 20,000, in a poll of 10,000 has shown a preference for Wilson.

The reason assigned for this by Ohio politicians is the fear of the German population of the deprivation of their personal rights which include the right to drink beer.

FIGHT FOR BORDER STATES.

Both parties claim Indiana and the postal polls have yet to register their verdict.

The situation in Illinois is so complex that neither national committee dares to venture a prediction as to majority, although each lays claim to it.

The Republican National Committee for the first time in years, claims is throwing money into some of the border and Southern States, which include Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, Tennessee, North Carolina and Oklahoma.

The situation in Wisconsin is unique in American politics. Senator La Follette, who is running for reelection as a Republican, is basing his claims upon the support he gave the Wilson administration. As a result the outcome of the national election in that State is to be watched.

The meagre returns from the Mountain and Far Western States are extremely little. The only definite attitude is that of California, where the drift appears to be towards Hughes.

SHIFT IN SENTIMENT.

Interest in the national election in this city has been aroused within the last week. In the early days of the campaign, the financial district, which is always influenced by politics outside, made up its mind that Hughes would win. There was a change in this sentiment the par of the town last week. This was once reflected on the stock exchange. Instead of looking upon Hughes as a certainty, the financial district, for reasons best known to itself, shifted and made the outcome a question.

One of the most far-seeing and most widely-known operators on the street, on Saturday accepted every dollar of Hughes' money that was offered at 10 to 7.

This Republican, who was a delegate to the Republican National Convention, on the same day placed a bet of $2,000 that Wilson will carry Ohio. It made a similar $2,000 bet that the Ohio man has bet in the same way.

The consensus of opinion among the most far-seeing politicians in both national committees is that the election will be determined by the industrial vote of the country.

Elopers Dead by Poison.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 16.—Charles Brown, a married man, and Elma Cope, fourteen, with whom he eloped last night, were found dead in a field here early today on the farm of the girl's father. They had taken poison. The elopers were caught in Arkansas. Brown was held under the Mann Act.

American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Co.

ASK BOSTON TO SAVE ARMENIANS

Aline Stone Blackwell, in a statement today, appeals for a generous response on the part of the public to the collection which will be made October 21 for the Armenian relief fund.

Miss Blackwell asserts that hundreds of thousands of Armenians are now on the brink of death, and the victims are mostly women and children.

She says that if the survivors are to be saved $200,000 must be raised within the next few days.

Miss Blackwell's appeal is as follows:

May I add my word in behalf of the Armenian relief fund, for which a nation-wide collection is to be made October 21?

The hundreds of thousands, now on the brink of death, are almost wholly women and children. They are innocent of any offence, except being Christians. They have gone through undescribable sufferings, and they are perishing in multitudes every day. If relief is to do them any good it must come quickly.

Every dollar contributed should be sent to Henry D. Forbes, National Shawmut Bank, Boston.

Lord Bryce's report, just out, shows on the testimony of many American and European eyewitnesses that cruelties have been committed such as have no parallel in modern history. And when a fled Cross nurse bagged a high Turkish official to spare the lives of women and children, he answered: "Women have no business to meddle with politics."

If the survivors are to be saved $200,000 must be raised within the next few days. Everyone shows on the testimony of many American and European eyewitnesses that cruelties have been committed such as have no parallel in modern history. And when a fled Cross nurse bagged a high Turkish official to spare the lives of women and children, he answered: "Women have no business to meddle with politics."

EXPECT BUT FEW BIG CASES UNTIL OCT. 23

Washington, Oct. 16.—Few opinions are expected from the Supreme Court today, the first decision day of the present session. It is reported that only miscellaneous orders would be announced and no important opinions would be handed down until October 23.

The British Government Used Exactly the Same Tactics in Jefferson's Day That It Is Using Against the Hearst Newspapers Today

THE vicious assault made upon the International News Service and the Hearst newspapers by the British government is simply another of hundreds of attempts to throttle the American press, when they could not bribe or buy that press.

The British government tried that kind of thing in 1776—and tried unsuccessfully.

They are trying it again in 1916—and again they will try it unsuccessfully.

The tactics of the British government in America are today precisely what they were a hundred years ago.

Listen to this extract from a letter written a hundred years ago and more to Count Van Hogendorf by Thomas Jefferson:

"You know well that that government (the British) has always kept a kind of standing army of news-writers, who, WITHOUT ANY REGARD TO TRUTH OR TO WHAT SHOULD BE LIKE TRUTH, invented and put into the papers whatever might serve the ministers. This suffices with the mass of the people, who have no means of distinguishing the false from the true paragraphs of a newspaper."

Is not that an absolutely photographic reproduction of British press-bureau methods, under the direction of the British government, at this very moment?

And do listen to this extract from a letter written by Jefferson to Elbridge Gerry in 1797, setting forth the insidious control of our domestic affairs which England was even then striving to obtain:

"When we take notice that these foreign and false citizens * * * are advancing rapidly to a monopoly of our banks and public funds; that they have in their alliance the most influential characters in and out of office; that they have shown they can force the government to proceed in whatever direction they dictate, and bend the interests of this country entirely to the will of another, it is impossible for a free mind not to see and to groan under the bondage in which it is bound. If anything after this could excite surprise it would be that they have been able so far to throw dust in the eyes of our own citizens as to fix on those who merely wish to recover self-government THE CHARGE OF SUBSERVING ONE FOREIGN INFLUENCE BECAUSE THEY RESIST SUBMISSION TO ANOTHER. But they POSSESS our PRINTING PRESSES, a powerful engine in their government of us."

By "these foreign and false citizens" Jefferson meant those Americans who were more British than American in their sympathies and conduct, and whom he thus specifically describes in a letter to James Madison, as follows:

"The line is now drawn so clearly as to throw on one side:

"1. THE FASHIONABLE CIRCLES OF PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON (natural aristocrats);

"2. Merchants trading on British capital;

"3. Paper men (all the old Tories are found in some one of the three descriptions).

"On the other side are merchants trading on their own capital; Irish merchants, tradesmen, mechanics, farmers and every other possible description of our citizens."

Which, you will observe, is a pretty exact description of the lines and divisions of today.

You will also observe that those "false and foreign" Americans, for whom Mr. Jefferson coined the term Anglomen, resorted to the precise tactics of the pro-British hybrids today, who "throw dust in the eyes of our own citizens" by loudly proclaiming that Americans who resent British aggressions and injuries are, therefore, subservient to Germany.

It is the same identical trick, word for word, letter for letter, and it is worked by the same identical means, for—

"THESE FALSE AND FOREIGN CITIZENS POSSESS OUR PRINTING PRESSES, A POWERFUL ENGINE IN THEIR GOVERNMENT OF US."

Why, if Thomas Jefferson could rise from his honored tomb this day he would see THE EXACT CONDITIONS which he deplored and resented one hundred and nineteen years ago—the same identical, shameful, humiliating control of our banks, our public funds AND OUR PRINTING PRESSES.

And now listen to Jefferson's statement of what these "false and foreign" Americans were trying to do with the newspapers they owned or controlled. He says:

"AT THIS VERY MOMENT THEY WOULD DRAW US INTO THE WAR ON THE SIDE OF ENGLAND."

And then Mr. Jefferson very accurately describes the news provided by the English "standing army of news-writers" in this year 1916, though he was then describing the news in the "false and foreign"-owned papers of 1807:

"General facts may indeed be collected from the newspapers, such as that Europe is at war * * * BUT NO DETAILS CAN EVER BE RELIED ON."

As it is today, so it was a hundred years ago—false news, garbled news, lying news was the output of the British government's "STANDING ARMY OF NEWS-WRITERS, WHO, WITHOUT ANY REGARD TO TRUTH, INVENT AND PUT INTO THE PAPERS WHATEVER WILL SERVE" the British government's purposes.

The British government may make its mind perfectly clear upon one point.

There is not money enough in the British treasury to bribe the International News Service or the Hearst newspapers to do the contemptible work of betraying their country and their people by suppressing the truth and publishing the things which are not true in order to serve the interests of England.

Neither is there any weapon of public or of secret coercion with which the British government or the British government's agents in America can frighten the International News Service or the Hearst newspapers from doing their duty as honest papers, as AMERICAN papers.

We have been notified that submission and apology would bring us into the favor of the British government.

The answer to that impudent proposal was printed Friday in this newspaper over the signature of William Randolph Hearst.

There is nothing to add to that reply.

It is the AMERICAN answer of the AMERICAN owner of this AMERICAN newspaper, and upon its platform of American independence we stand firmly, facing the arrogance of the British Ministry and confidently relying upon the approval of our countrymen.

When this newspaper ceases to be an American newspaper and becomes the subservient tool of a foreign ministry, or the cringing and frightened slave of a foreign government, then, citizens and friends, the brain that directs it and the brains that make it will be other brains than the loyal and true American brains that now put this newspaper daily into your homes.

Upon that proposition you can stake your last American dollar or even your good American life in absolute safety.

Mother Earth's Father and Mother

Many Interesting and Very Curious Thoughts About the Origin of the Earth on Which We Live

By Garrett P. Serviss

MERE animals don't care how things began; they are solely interested in things as they are. But men, being, by virtue of their superior brains, more than mere animals, want to know all they can about the origin and nature of everything about them. They have their minds to feed as well as their bodies.

This mental food is not always solid knowledge; often it is largely speculative, or theory, which is knowledge in a fermentative stage out of which, eventually, good bread will come, if the materials and processes are all right.

There is now in the baking a new batch of the bread of knowledge intrusted to the astronomical oven, but in the preparation of which geological, physical, chemical and mathematical hands have had a share, and there is great interest in the question of the quality of the loaf to be finally turned out. In its present state it is called "the planetesimal hypothesis," and it relates to the old problem of the origin of the earth.

There has been much talk about it in the past ten years or so, and while some have enthusiastically accepted it at the first taste, before even the makers were ready to declare it done, others have smacked their lips in a dissatisfied way, and doubtfully shaken their heads. Recently it has been drawn out of the oven once more for a test, and presented to the world under the form of a book called "The Origin of the Earth," by Thomas C. Chamberlin, the head of the department of geology in the Chicago University, and the author of the planetesimal hypothesis.

Certainly it would be difficult to find a more absorbingly interesting question than that which is concerned with the beginning and the evolution of the globe to whose existence we owe our own existence. There have been various hypotheses about this in the past, and one of them, "the nebular hypothesis" of Laplace, has for three-quarters of a century been universally known, and almost universally accepted as probably correct, at least in its main outlines.

However, there are some particulars in which Laplace's hypothesis fails to meet the requirements, although it would be impossible in the space at my command to point them out with sufficient detail to make the discussion intelligible. Mr. Chamberlin shows what they are in his book. He thinks the Laplace loaf is not viable, and therefore he has concocted his own. He admits that his theory is not yet perfect, that it is subject to alterations and corrections, although he believes that it is constructed on the right lines.

I wish it were possible for Laplace to reappear with his immense genius instructed by the knowledge that has been acquired since his day, and pass upon this substitute for his celebrated hypothesis, just as I should like to see Napoleon ride out upon his white horse on the battle line in Europe and try his hand in twentieth century war.

Laplace's idea was that the substance out of which the sun, earth and other planets were formed once existed in the shape of a huge rotating nebula which gradually contracted and condensed, leaving off rings, one after another, at its circumference, until the principal mass at the centre became too dense for such separation to continue. This central mass then became the sun, while the rings broke up and took the shape of balls, or planets, circling around the sun, which vastly outweighed them all.

The system of rings surrounding the planet Saturn has always been regarded as an object lesson favoring Laplace's hypothesis, while a laboratory experience, the "Plateau Experiment," has been employed to prove the possibility of a rotating mass being transformed in the way described. Some of the nebulae seen with telescopes also show rings recalling the Laplacean theory.

The planetesimal hypothesis is much less simple in form. It is based on a calculation of what would happen if two stars, careering through space, should make a close approach to one another. Their gravitational attraction upon one another would upset their internal equilibrium and produce explosions or outshootings of gaseous matter, which would condense into the "planetesimals" that give name to the hypothesis.

These would gyrate around the body from which they originated in elliptical orbits, with crossing points, where knots would be formed. These knots, or planetesimals fell together until they became planets. Their orbits, although highly elliptic at first, would rapidly be "wound up" until they assumed the slightly elliptical forms of the actual planetary orbits. The great number of spiral nebulae which the heavens contain is looked upon as a corroboration of this hypothesis, although they, as far as we know, are on a vastly grander scale than that of the one supposed to have given birth to our sun and its system of planets.

The odd thing about this hypothesis is that it presupposes the accidental meeting of two stars in order that one of them (or perhaps both) may beget planets. If we call the sun the mother star of our solar system, what has become of its father star? One would like to recognize him among the stellar host, if he be yet visible, and pay him the filial respect due to paternity, however remote.
